GREAT BRITAIN HAS HOPE OF RESULTS

Paris Stipulates That the Commission Work Under Treaty Provision
Providing for Experts.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
London, October 26.—America's decision to lend her advice and cooperation in a conference for the settlement of the German reparations muddle seems to have lifted Europe out of the slough of depression.

Secretary Hughes' prompt and decisive response to Marquis Curzon's plea for American assistance has given impetus to a situation which has heretofore been marked by utter inertia, and for the first time today British officials began to see a rift in the mists which so long have enveloped the problem.

America's voice, stressing the imperative need of finding a suitable financial plan to prevent a further disaster in Europe, found prompt echoes in Paris, Brussels and Rome, for it became known late today at the British foreign office that France, Belgium and Italy all had accepted the principle of an advisory conference of experts.

British Are Sanguine.
While the British authorities would have preferred a full conference of ministers to liquidate the reparation troubles, they hope the preliminary conference of experts will lead to a larger council of allied and American statesmen.

France's consent to enter the advisory conference of experts will involve the question of the acceptance of the American principle that the inter-allied debts and German reparations must be divorced, a point upon which Premier Poincare heretofore has differed from Great Britain and the United States.

It Seems Simple.
France will also have to face the question of reducing the amount of indemnity expected from Germany under the Versailles treaty, which in the past has been fixed at 6,000,000, 000 pounds sterling, or 132,000,000, 000 gold marks. This sum and the question of granting a moratorium which led to the failure of the last expert bankers' commission, of which J. P. Morgan was a member.

If, as the British government anticipates, M. Poincare agrees to these and other conditions, it will then remain only for the nations participating in the conference to appoint their experts and formulate a program of procedure.

British officials seem to favor Berlin as the principal seat of the conference, as this would make Germany the center of the movement.

DON'T LET 'EM
BEAT YOU TO IT!

Too Late!
It's rather an uncomfortable feeling, isn't it, when the agent shouts these words at you and you gaze at the midnight train rounding the curve toward the city?

Midnight at a country station.
No more trains and a two-mile walk back to the village hostelry.

If this certain traveler had read the railroad schedule more closely—he'd have been there on time.

Don't let some Atlanta resident show "Too Late" at you, when you inquire about some choice bargain offered for sale in The Constitution want ad section.

Read those want ads just as closely as any traveler reads his railroad schedule and you won't have to see the splendid offers of The Constitution snatched up by persons who get to the given addresses before you do.

BLUEBEARD TURNS DISCARDED GIRLS OUT ON MOUNTAIN

Charleston, W. Va., October 26.— Neighborhood tales of a mountain bluebeard, who enticed girls to his hilltop cabin and then turned them out on the mountains to die, were reported to state police headquarters today by Sergeant W. G. Brown, investigating the finding of human bones in Boone county.

The sergeant's report did not give the name of the old man, who was said to have died some time ago.
Neighbors declared that he had taken several girls, mostly from Kentucky, to his cabin and kept them there for months and when he tired of them, turned them out.

It was about a year after they heard quarreling at the cabin led them to believe he had driven out a young Charleston girl, neighbors said, that the bones of a woman and child were found at the foot of a cliff near Joe's creek.

PERMANENT BODY TO DIRECT FIGHT ON BOLL WEEVIL

Association To Combat Menace Grows Out of an Informal Conference Held in New Orleans.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
New Orleans, October 26.—The National Boll Weevil Control association was organized here today as the concluding feature of the National Boll Weevil Menace convention which began Wednesday at the call of the Louisiana Bankers' association.

The organization of the association will be perfected by an executive committee of twenty-two members representing ten varied interests in the cotton industry, and after appointment of a part of its members today it immediately went into session and determined to meet in New Orleans November 17. At that time the entire personnel of the committee will have been named and steps will be taken to complete organization of the larger body.

C. G. Rives, Jr., president of the Louisiana Bankers' association and chairman of the convention, expects to announce within the next few days the complete personnel of the committee.

He designated the following today:

Partial List.
United States Department of Agriculture—Dr. W. D. Hunter, dean of the department's boll weevil fighters, and Dr. B. R. Coad, in charge of the

Association of Southern Agricultural Workers—W. E. Hinds, Alabama Polytechnic institute, and D. C. Hull, Railroads—C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central railroad, and W. R. Scott, president of the Southern Pacific railway in Texas.

Bankers—Dr. W. D. Hays, Alexandria, La., and one other, yet to be named.

Manufacturers—Former Governor
B. B. Comer, of Alabama, and one other.
Growers—W. D. Farriss and R. D.
Bowen, of Texas; J. W. Fox, Mississippi and David R. Coker, South Carolina.

Fertilizer manufacturers—A representative of the Armour company and one of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company, both yet to be named.

Cotton exchanges—H. M. Rankin,
New Orleans, and Henry M. Royce,
New York.

Press—Arthur G. Newmeyer, New Orleans, president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association, to represent the dailies, and Dr. Tate Butler, Memphis, to represent agricultural journals.

Serve Without Pay.
Members of the executive committee will serve without pay but will receive expenses incurred in attending meetings. They will select their own chairman and such salaries employees as shall be needed, but no member of the committee shall hold a salaried position. Headquarters of the organization will be established in New Orleans.

The resolution adopted by the convention and under which the plan of organization was authorized stated the aims of the association as follows:
"The objects and purposes of the National Boll Weevil Control association are to concentrate the thought and effort of the American people on boll weevil control, and to obtain the assistance toward that end of all producers, manufacturers and consumers of cotton."

Has Broad Powers.

"The executive committee is authorized to examine all suggestions, discoveries and inventions that give promise of accomplishing the purpose of the association and to assist in every way possible in curbing the boll weevil menace."

"In a general way this committee is expected to constitute a clearing house for everything relating to the cotton boll weevil and has authority to do whatever in its judgment will assist in solving the great problem of boll weevil control."

MASS OF POPULATION WANTS NORMAL RULE

Occupation of Towns by Rhinelanders Brings Immediate Recognition as De Facto Governments.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Coblentz, October 26.—Active and open French support enabled the Rhineland republic today to extend its hold over a number of small towns and villages. French and Belgian troops enlarged their policing activities in republican-controlled towns and quickly suppressed disorders growing out of attempts by the loyalists to throw out the separatist groups.

Joseph Matthes and his supporters in the separatist movement still hold Coblentz, which became the capital of the new republic overnight, when the French military cordon kept loyalists off the streets while the separatists, who previously had been driven from the town, returned and marched down the streets past the French sentries and took over the government buildings.

The French representatives, known as the superior delegates of the inter-allied high commission, have been active in establishing or reestablishing new governments in various small towns. The republicans are immediately accorded de facto recognition by the French and the Belgians, who aid them in maintaining order.

People Against Separatists.
The separatists have brought upon themselves the united opposition of the nationalists and communists. The masses of the population is supporting the normal government, but under the Franco-Belgian military policy of disarming the police, the old officials have been unable to defend themselves.

The French communiques have revealed much dissatisfaction with the separatists at several points, but it is said the French delegates have been able to strengthen the republican position in various ways. Rumors that violent reactions were due today were current, but as far as is known tonight all outbreaks were put down promptly. Much fear is expressed, however, regarding conditions next week, when unemployment will be greatly increased and the food problem develops. The French report that the free distribution of food already has commenced at Duisburg.

17,000 NEGROES
IN NORTH WANT TO RETURN SOUTH

Mobile, Ala., October 26.—In the cities of Lake Michigan region are 17,000 negroes, formerly of Alabama and other southern states who wish to return to the land of their nativity, the chamber of commerce was advised today. Memphis, Tenn., in answer to the appeal of the lonely negroes, who are said to be suffering greatly this winter as a result of the severe cold in the lake region, has made provision to return 1,000 families.

Other cities in need of labor, the communication stated, are invited to bring the negroes back.

SEPTEMBER MORNINGS
MAY SWIM AT NIGHT

Santa Barbara, Cal., October 26.— Bathing a la nature on the ocean beach in the evenings and early mornings may become the custom in this city, as it has been discovered that the old ordinance in force in Santa Barbara does not require that bathing suits be worn at night. The law provides that suits must be worn between the hours of 6 o'clock in the morning and 9 in the evening. It makes no provision for suits the rest of the 24 hours. It has been known for some time that bathing parties have been held minus suits, but it was not known that the return to ancient customs had legal backing.

Interloper Licks Husband
WOMAN LOSES FINGERS AS AGED MEN FIGHT Goes Home and Slays Self

Lasalle, Colo., October 26.—After a terrific hand-to-hand struggle with Elmer Nowell in the Nowell home here, William Bedlien drove to his own home, eight miles away and committed suicide by shooting himself early today. During the fight in which the participants battled for an hour with pistols, knives and fists, both men were beaten badly and Mrs.
Nowell seriously injured. The trouble started, Nowell said, when he discovered Bedlien visiting Mrs. Nowell.
Nowell told the police today he had been lying in wait for Bedlien and Mrs. Nowell and that when they drove up to his home and went inside, he shot the tires off the automobile.
Entering the house, Nowell said he engaged Bedlien in the fight and that Bedlien finally knocked him out and departed. Mrs. Nowell lost two fingers from one hand when she grasped a knife in the hands of one of the men. The furniture in the house was wrecked and the walls filled with bul-letholes.

Mrs. Bedlien told the police her husband entered their house, covered with blood, spoke briefly to her and went to his room. She said she heard him loading a pistol and ran out of the house. Returning later with friends, they found Bedlien dead.

Bedlien, who was 60 years old, was manager of the White Ash Mine here, and Nowell, 50, formerly had been employed in a mine in which Bedlien was foreman.

Mrs. Nowell is in a hospital and her husband is in jail.

MOUNTAIN BABY BELIEVED HELD BY KIDNAPERS

Pearl Turner, 3 Years Old, Not Lost in Hills, Declares Sheriff Over Telephone.

Fort Smith, Ark., October 26.—
That little Pearl Turner, three-year-old mountaineer girl, was kidnapped and is not lost in the wilds of Scott county mountains, was the opinion expressed by Sheriff Charles Allen today over long-distance telephone, following a report that the girl, in the company of an unidentified man, had been seen in Hodges, Okla.

"I have virtually come to the conclusion that Pearl was kidnapped and is not lost," Sheriff Allen said when asked concerning repeated rumors that the girl had been kidnapped.

Explaining reasons for his belief, Sheriff Allen said that he had received a report from a Judge Robinson of Malvern, Ark., that he and a party of Salline river fishermen had seen a little white-haired, barefooted, hatless girl in the company of three men in the river bottoms near Malvern.

Friday morning the sheriff said he received another message from Hodges, Okla., saying that a man, accompanied by a girl, apparently three years old, white haired, barefooted and hatless was in that place Thursday afternoon inquiring the way to Leflore, Okla.

Immediately following the receipt of this message Sheriff Allen notified officers in Heavener, Leflore and other Oklahoma towns to be on the lookout.

SENATE SUMMONS
WALTON TO PLEAD
ON NOVEMBER 1

Governor Is To Be Arraigned on Articles of Impeachment Covering 22 Counts.

LAST EIGHT CHARGES APPROVED BY HOUSE

Former Speaker Gibbons, Walton Supporter, Delivers Two-Edged Remark on Charges.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Oklahoma City, Okla., October 26.
Governor J. C. Walton late today was ordered to trial before a senate court of impeachment on November 1 on official misconduct charges presented by the lower house of the state legislature.

The senate set the trial date to conform to the law allowing the governor six days in which to file his answer to the allegations and enter a plea. It was said, however, that should the executive reply to the charges before the trial, the trial immediately would be started.

Date for the arraignment was set immediately after a board of house managers had presented to the court a bill embodying 22 charges, the entire number drafted by the house committee on investigation and impeachment.
The house completed its bill of impeachment after five days of consideration.

Heavy Majorities Polled.
The eight articles approved today charge the governor with issuing state police commissions to large numbers of "irresponsible persons," censuring the press, issuing illegal deficiency certificates on two occasions, falsifying his primary campaign expenses, abuse of the pardon and parole powers, receiving funds from various sources for his personal use and general incompetency.

The entire 22 charges were approved by the house with heavy majorities except Article 14 charging the governor with an impeachable offense in that he refused to permit the capital punishment laws of the state to be carried out. This charge was approved by a vote of 51 to 42. The article charging him with abridging the freedom of the press was sustained 52 to 7. This was the largest number of votes cast for any article.

Testimony read today in the house related to the charges involving censorship of the press, the issuance of a deficiency certificate for a state home for negro orphans and campaign expenses.

Representative Stovall, democrat, Choctaw, after quoting the statute providing that no deficiency certificates shall be issued by the governor until all regularly appropriated funds are exhausted, read testimony of J.
R. Johnson, superintendent of the negro home, to the effect that only one-twelfth of the funds of the institution had been expended when the governor issued $4,000 in deficiency certificates.

Gibbons Is Cryptic.
Johnson, according to his testimony, declared Governor Walton insisted that he create positions for two negro barbers of Oklahoma City, and said the deficiency certificates were issued to cover their salaries.

The barbers drew salaries during three months, according to the testimony but were at the home only one day and did not work.

Consideration of the charge that Governor Walton had collected large sums for his primary campaign expenses in addition to the amount he reported to the secretary of the state election board drew from Representative Gibbons, democrat, McClain, a bitter denunciation of those who buy public office.

"I hope the vote on this article will establish a precedent that will strike terror to every man who rides to office on a 'pocketbook,'" Gibbons shouted. "I don't care if that man is the governor or a constable."

Gibbons, former speaker of the house and staunch supporter of Gov-
quandary as to the significance of his remarks.

Since the award, two days ago,
Mrs. Mercer, 29, has been known in her neighborhood as the "lady with the $5,000 kiss." She had charged that Louis hugged her without her consent and smacked vigorously on her lips. She sued him for $50,000.

"Obviously the jury was over influenced by the youth, race and beauty of the plaintiff," said the supreme court judge in setting the verdict aside. "I think the story, as told by the plaintiff and her husband, was worthy of belief."

Justice May ordered a new trial.

DAMAGE TO NAME OF FRENCH WORTH
$100,000 — PERHAPS

New York, October 26.—Cantfaurs who are nephews of the Vanderbilts are apt to prove expensive—say, $100,- 000 for three days' work.

Hurt by the sarcastic things he accuses officials of the Mogul Checker Taxicab company of saying about him, Francis Ormond French, who took to the humble whipcords when he went broke in the stock market, announced suit for that amount Friday against the taxi concern, charging defamation of character.

"Henry Weiss and Cliff Gordon, two of the Mogul officials, have made a laughing stock of Mr. French," declared his attorney. "They have used his name and connections to advertise their business, and made him an object of pity, scorn and ridicule."

The $17 which French's carned while driving a big yellow taxi seemed a bit of impudence to a Harvard man, his fellow employees explain, and the unappreciative attitude of his employers irked him even more.

Say Car Was Speeding.

Officers McDaniel and Cartright,
who were among the first to reach the scene, were told that the car was speeding at the time of the accident.

Witnesses estimated the speed of the machine at 60 miles an hour.

An immense crowd gathered immediately after the accident and ambulances were rushed to the scene. The injured men were taken to Grady
hospital for treatment.

The men were so badly hurt that the police have not been able to learn who was driving the car, nor to get a statement as to the cause of the collision.

Motorman's Story.

J. T. Evans, motorman of the West Fair-Lee street car which figured in the collision, stated that the automobile was going at a rapid rate of speed. Georgia Railway officials stated that the speedometer registered 65 miles. The accident occurred at 5:45 o'clock.

There were several passengers on the street car, but no one was hurt, so far as is known.

Edwards is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Edwards; two brothers, J. T. Edwards, Jr., and Harry Edwards, and three sisters, Nell, Evelyn and Aline.

Edwards suffered a fractured skull

Hubert Bishop, 501 Whitehall street, bruised and scratched.
Say Car Was Speeding.

Officers McDaniel and Cartright,
who were among the first to reach the scene, were told that the car was
speeding at the time of the accident.

machine at 60 miles an hour.

An immense crowd gathered immediately after the accident and ambulances were rushed to the scene. The injured men were taken to Grady
hospital for treatment.

The men were so badly hurt that
the police have not been able to learn
who was driving the car, nor to get a statement as to the cause of the collision.</

and Mrs. B. C. Word; and three sisters, Mrs. Lillie Mae Pitts, Mrs. Ethel Peoples and Miss Georgia Word.

Mrs. Word could ascribe no reason Friday night for the presence of her son in the death car.

"He had finished his supper and said he was going down to a barber shop and would return in a few minutes. That was the last I saw of him," she said.

Car Almost at Standstill.

According to L. A. Jones, of 94 Nelson street, who was standing in front of his home and within 50 feet of the accident, the automobile was traveling at high speed while the street car was "practically at a standstill." Jones stated that street cars passing this point slow down to less than 10 miles per hour in order to turn a switch at Walker and Nelson streets.

"It appeared to me," Jones said, "that at the time the motor man slowed down the street car to turn the switch, he saw the auto coming head-on with such speed as to make it impossible to turn the corner without striking the street car, and applied his brakes. The street car was practically at a standstill when the automobile crashed into it."

Jones stated that the five men in the car were thrown violently to the street and were unconscious when he reached them. The men were placed in L. Puckett's car, which was passing at the time. Word and Edwards died en route to Grady hospital.

The ambulance of Hunter-Blanchard-Gartrell, funeral directors, made a record run to the scene of the accident and assisted in taking the injured to the hospital.

The seven-passenger touring car was completely demolished.

The Housekeeper's Primer.

(From The Delinquent.)

Curdled custard may be due to too-long cooking, or to cooking over too-hot water, or to pouring the egg mixture into hot milk instead of the hot milk into the egg, or to lack of stirring either when the milk is added to the egg or during the cooking, or to allowing the custard to remain over the hot water after the cooking is finished. The container should be removed from the heat as soon as the custard coats the spoon.

Cloudy coffee may result because the coffee has not been thoroughly mixed with a small amount of cold water or with cold water and egg or eggshell before the full amount of hot or cold water is added, or because it has not been given sufficient time to settle after the boiling of the coffee before it is poured into the cups.

Soggy, baked potatoes may be due to overcooking, or to allowing them to stand before serving without breaking the skins to permit the steam to escape (a baked potato should be eaten the moment it is done), or to poor potatoes, or to cooking the potatoes in a slow oven.

A flat omelet is the result of cooking too slowly, so that the egg is not sufficiently hardened to prevent the escape of the expanding air; or to cooking too quickly, so that the egg forms a case which prevents the enclosed air from expanding; or to insufficient cooking. If the omelet is removed before the egg is hardened all through, the expanded air escapes and the omelet falls. In almost all cases an omelet fails if not served as soon as it is cooked.

Signs Are Placed To Remind Public Of Traffic Rules

Signs warning the public against crossing streets except at proper points, and reminding motorists of traffic regulations, have been placed on Peachtree and other streets in the business section of the city by the Atlanta Safety council. This move is the first definite step toward placing signals, signs and other warnings in the streets by the council in an effort to reduce the large number of accidents and as a warning to careless automobile drivers.

Several weeks ago the safety council initiated a move to secure more rigid enforcement of traffic laws by the police force and undertook a campaign to warn pedestrians against the danger of failing to observe proper precaution in the streets. A vigilance committee composed of more than 150 members of the council has been active recently in prosecution of violations of traffic regulations.

"We expect to place the signs wherever needed, beginning first in the more congested section," George Diebert, member of the council, stated Friday night. "Careless drivers and thoughtless pedestrians will be reminded of their duty to observe as closely as possible regulations governing traffic, and those who fail to heed the warnings will be given more drastic treatment," he said. "Accidents occur almost daily on the streets of Atlanta which could be avoided by observance of our laws. These accidents result fatally all too often, and this council plans to lend every assistance possible to minimizing this danger and in stimulating a more wholesome regard for the law," Mr. Diebert concluded.

White arsenic, made from ores, was the most important item in production of non-metallic minerals throughout Canada during 1922, according to a statement issued by the bureau of statistics. The quantity turned out last year was 2,576 tons, with a value of $321,137, compared with 1,085 tons during the previous year.

Prize-Winning Cattle at Recent Fair Slaughtered Here, and on Sale Today In Purity Markets in Rogers' Stores

Here is shown two of three carloads of fine cattle bought by the Purity Market Company and made ready for sale by the White Provision Company.

Don't fail to get some of the extra choice steaks and roasts from these fine cattle. You will be immensely pleased with cuts you can get today, and for a few days, as long as this fine meat lasts

At top is shown the champion carload of Black Angus cattle, exhibited at the Southeastern Fair, and below the champion carload of Hereford cattle in the fat stock division. These were owned and exhibited by William White, Jr., each exhibit winning the blue ribbon and also the cup offered by the Institute of American Meat Packers. A carload of Shorthorns, exhibited by Mr. White and winning similar prizes, were also included in the purchase made by the Purity Market Company. The entire lot includes about fifty head of fine young cattle, of uniform size, and there's going to be a big demand made on the Purity Markets in Rogers' Stores for this meat, judging from advance inquiries.

MEAT FOR HEALTH

Beef Salad—Boiled beef in salad form is often served for supper in warm weather. Soup meat will answer excellently for this purpose, since the dressing gives it character and richness. The meat should be cut into cubes (not chopped) and seasoned with salt, pepper and mustard which have been well blended with onion juice and moistened with a little beef stock. A mixture of lemon juice or vinegar and double the quantity of oil or thick cream will complete the flavoring. The whole dish should stand for an hour or more after the seasonings are added. Surround the meat with quartered tomatoes, cut celery or cucumbers. Add a sprinkling of mixed parsley if desired.

and cut the meat into pieces. Place bones, meat, fat and marrow in a large kettle which has a tight-fitting cover. Add cold water in the proportion of a pint to each pound of material, if you desire rich stock, and a quart per pound if you desire light stock. Let it stand for one-half hour, then heat very slowly to the boiling point and add salt. Other seasonings may be tied in a cloth and left for an hour or two in the stock. Vegetables should not be cooked too long with the soup stock, as overcooking develops an unsatisfactory flavor. If lean materials are used, no skimming is needed, since this makes clear soup, but takes away some of the nourishment. The soup should simmer from four to ten hours, according to ingredients used and the strength desired. Fuel cost is small if the gas flame is kept at its lowest point. The vegetables should be removed, unless the soup is to be served at once. Quick cooling aids in preserving the quality. The fat which forms on top should not be removed until the stock is to be used, as the solid cake of fat acts as a preservative. In warm weather stock should not be kept over twenty-four hours; in cold weather it can be kept for several days. If the stock is to be used immediately, all fat should be removed. The fat that cannot be taken off with a spoon may be absorbed by blotting paper or a soft cloth. Greasy soup is exceedingly unpalatable. The bright color in a good brown soup is obtained by browning part of the meat before adding it to the stock.

Jellied Soup—Rich beef or other soup stock may be chilled and served cold for special occasions in summer. The stock is cleared with egg to make it attractive in appearance. Mix together a quart of stock and the shell and white of one egg. Apply gradual heat and stir constantly until a thick scum forms on the top. Let the dish stand for a few minutes, then strain the soup through a napkin or other fine cloth. The soup must be made with considerable bone if it is to jelly. If it is not firm enough it can be stiffened with gelatine in the proportion of a tablespoon of gelatine to one quart of soup. The gelatine should be soaked in water for each three cups of soup. The jellied soup must be rather highly seasoned and a small amount of aromatic coloring will give the desired tint to a pale soup.

Stewed Shin of Beef—This dish requires 4 pounds of shin of beef, 1 medium-sized onion, 1 whole clove and a small bay leaf, 1 sprig of parsley, 1 1/2 tablespoons of flour, 1 small slice of carrot, 1-2 tablespoon of salt, 1-2 teaspoon of pepper, 2 quarts of boiling water, 1 1/2 tablespoons of butter or savory drippings. Have the butcher cut the bone in several pieces. Put all the ingredients but the flour and butter into a stewpan and bring to a boil. Set the pan where the liquid will just simmer for six hours or after boiling for five or ten minutes, put all into the fireless cooker for eight

KIWANIANS TO SPONSOR MISS HAYS' CONCERT

Atlanta Kiwanians Monday will sponsor a concert by Miss Mary Adel Hays, Atlanta girl, who gained a wide reputation as a concert singer, in the interest of the Home for the Friendless.

Miss Hays will be assisted by members of her concert company, Miss Mildred Haley, contralto; Miss Louise Jennings, lyric soprano and violinist; Arthur Langhamer, baritone, and Miss Grace Martin, pianist. Miss Hays and her concert company has toured the west coast for the past six seasons and has been warmly received. Her appearance here will be welcomed by music lovers and all those interested in the charity for which the concert is given, officials said.

Solos by members of the company, with violin and piano accompaniment, and selections in costume from "Madame Butterfly," "Fazlreel,"

"The Daughter of the Regiment," "Martha" and others will be given.

One of the most interesting natural wonders in central Pennsylvania is the Huntingdon county ice mine, which affords a convenient place for outing parties on a nearby picnic ground to cool beverages.

Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, Electrical Wizard, Dead

Schenectady, N. Y., October 26.—Dr. Charles Fortens Steinmetz, electrical wizard, died at his home here today of a physical breakdown due to a trip to the Pacific coast, from which he recently returned.

The attending physician said breakdown was being served the patient when suddenly his heart seemed to give way and he died immediately. The trip which Dr. Steinmetz had made to the west started September 1 and proved much more strenuous than he or members of his adopted family planned. He was compelled to take to his bed soon after his return on October 13. Physicians said a rest was advisable but his condition was not serious.

He awoke today in a cheerful mood, but as preparations were being made to serve his breakfast, a sudden heart attack seized him and he died immediately. It was known before Dr. Steinmetz's trip to the Pacific coast that his heart was weak, and his program was so arranged that if rest periods might be allowed. Hundreds of invitations to deliver addresses were received by him but he was forced to decline most of them.

Alone When End Came. Accompanying Dr. Steinmetz were his adopted son, J. L. R. Hayden, general electric engineer and member of the Hayden family. The exact cause of death was given by Dr. Steinmetz's physician as "acute dilation of the heart, following a chronic myocarditis of many years standing, which is a weakening of the heart muscle."

There was no one with Dr. Steinmetz when the end came, his nurse leaving the room a few minutes before. One of his adopted grandsons, William Hayden, entering the room with his breakfast, was the first to notice his condition. Soon after he awoke this morning Dr. Steinmetz told his nurse that he was feeling fine. Last night he spent much time chatting with members of his adopted family about technical matters. This morning after his death, there was found on his desk a scientific book, with several passages marked for his grandson to read.

A recent feat which attracted attention to the work of the electrical wizard was the production of an artificial indoor thunderstorm including a bolt of lightning. The thunderstorm which Dr. Steinmetz both produced and controlled had all the characteristics of its natural brother except the thunderclaps.

At a demonstration of the Steinmetz "lightning generator" in the laboratory of the General Electric company in March, 1922, the family forked tongues flashed through the air with a deafening crash, splintering a large block of wood, hurling the fragments 25 feet and ripping a miniature tree from tip to base.

The bolt carried the energy of 1,000,000 horsepower, about one-fifth the energy of the energy of a natural lightning bolt and lasted for one hundred thousandth part of a second. "In lightning generator," Dr. Steinmetz explained, "we get discharge of 10,000 amperes at over 100,000 volts, lasting for one hundred thousandth part of a second. This gives us the explosive, tearing and shattering effect of real lightning, so that a piece of small tree exposed to the discharge is mechanically torn to pieces. A piece of wire struck by the flash vanished in dust."

"The difference between lightning energy and ordinary electric current is similar to that between a pound of dynamite and a pint of gas," he said. "The pint of gasoline contains more energy and can do more work but it gives off its energy slowly while the dynamite gives off its energy explosively all at once at an enormous rate of power."

Dr. Steinmetz took a keen personal interest in socialism and in the work of socialist economists. Last year he was a candidate on the socialist party ticket for the office of state engineer and surveyor and although defeated, ran well ahead of the other candidates on his ticket. During the election campaign the socialist party announced he had worked out a plan for a gigantic electrical system which would provide heat, light and power for the state.

In April, 1922, Dr. Steinmetz made public a letter to Lenin, chief of state of Soviet Russia, offering his services for technical advice to that country. In January of this year he accepted a post as member of the advisory committee of Kuzbass colony in Siberia.

The photograph added that a picture of Mrs. Stokes and her two children, which was identified by two negroes as one similar to a photograph which hung in 1914 in the Bethel, Conn., home of Thomas W. Brander, manufacturer, also was made in 1918.

The prohibition good for us Americans, declares Ibanes. New York, October 26.—Stylin himself "both a Spaniard and an American," Vicente Ibanes, author and playwright, declared he considered prohibition a good thing for "us Americans" when he arrived today on the Mauretania.

"Prohibition is undoubtedly a good thing," said Ibanes, "for after we visit foreign countries where we drink heavily, it is good to come home where we may find rest from our drinking bouts."

The Spanish author was in a jovial and bantering mood, good naturedly parrying a multitude of questions from the American press about his international affairs. He said, "too delicate to discuss."

To seek funds. The frankly stated object of the meeting and the permanent organization is to work for a suitable appropriation by the legislature, carrying forward of the plan of the state board of health and extend that plan in the fight on communicable and preventable diseases, to aid in the work of combating the white plague by better provision for the tuberculosis sanatorium, and for a general campaign that will help eliminate much of the disease which is lowering the productive power of the state in every line of activity.

The committee named at an open forum meeting to formulate a plan for organization consists of Gordon Groover, Savannah; Joseph A. Holomom, Atlanta; W. T. Anderson, Macon; Dr. B. Walker, manager of the Savannah board of trade, secretary-treasurer, and Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the state board of health, Atlanta, chairman of the legislative committee with power to name others on his committee.

Aggressive Campaign. Speakers emphasizing the definite need for an aggressive organization included Assistant Surgeon General Leslie L. Lumsden, Washington, United States public health service; Robert F. Maddox, Atlanta; Dr. Samuel T. Darling, of the Rockefeller foundation; James A. Holomom of the Atlanta Constitution; W. T. Anderson, of the Macon Telegraph; Dr. Allen H. Crone, Atlanta, for the State Medical association, who at first opposed the formation of another state organization but yielded when it was shown that the new health association would not overlap nor interfere with the existing bodies; Dr. L. T. Little, of Thomsville, who urged that at a part of the work of the association is immediately the selling of the state health law to every county in Georgia; Dr. Minnewick, of Ware; Gordon Saussey, Savannah, president of the Georgia Municipal League, which has been emphasizing the relation of health of the possibility of securing more factories in Georgia; Dr. W. K. Smith, a legislator from Bryan county, and others.

Science Can Save. Dr. Lumsden reviewed the work of science in the elimination of typhoid fever and the reduction of smallpox and diphtheria casualties, and urged as humane and economic health work that will save millions of dollars in time and money for the state. He pleaded for more liberal support of the state health board and was applauded roundly when he said that the board is doing magnificent work thought handicapped by ridiculously trivial state financial aid. Mr. Holomom spoke of the economic and industrial value of better health conditions and cited actual figures of the past year to show that malaria takes its toll of millions of dollars as well as hundreds of lives and can be as certainly eradicated as yellow fever has been eliminated. He said that the conference and organization was one of the most vitally important in the state for the conservation of human energy and productivity.

Many Are Present. In the conference today were represented the federal and state health organizations, the local city and county organizations, representatives from many city and county boards of medical associations, civic bodies social organizations and others. Atlanta, Macon, Augusta, Fort Valley, Marietta, Savannah, Waynesville, Columbus, Waycross, Rome, Toccoa, Jacksonville, Elberton, and Washington, D. C., had representation at the meeting. The state board of health, of which Mr. Maddox is chairman, and Dr. J. H. McDuffie, vice chairman, held brief meeting during the day for better co-operation with the organization. Almost the whole board was present.

Hollomon Speaks. James A. Hollomon, associate editor of the Atlanta Constitution, publicist and student of general conditions in Georgia, active in constructive work along several lines for the progress of Georgia, was one of the chief speakers today. Mr. Hollomon, represents the same, thinking laymen of the state in the consideration of ways and means to eliminate disease so far as possible and make Georgia a healthier state in which to live. Robert F. Maddox, of Atlanta, former mayor of that city, eminent banker of the south, was the principal speaker, addressing the meeting on "Health and Business," impressing the commercial importance of better health conditions for the state and agriculture and general business in Georgia.

1914 Photograph Of Stokes Fame Was Taken in '18

New York, October 26.—Ira L. Hill, Fifth Avenue photographer, testified today at the re-trial of W. E. D. Stokes' voice suit against Mrs. Helen Edw. Stokes, that a picture of the defendant which negro witnesses testified was taken in 1914, was not taken until April 9, 1918.

Edgar T. Wallace, the correspondent, was interrupted in a detailed denial of the misconduct charges of Mr. Stokes' witnesses when Mr. Hill took the stand. Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel for Mrs. Stokes, was reading the allegations of each witness for the hotel man, and Wallace was contradicting them one by one when Mr. Untermyer decided to hear Mr. Hill.

The photograph added that a picture of Mrs. Stokes and her two children, which was identified by two negroes as one similar to a photograph which hung in 1914 in the Bethel, Conn., home of Thomas W. Brander, manufacturer, also was made in 1918.

PROHIBITION GOOD FOR US AMERICANS, DECLARES IBANES

New York, October 26.—Stylin himself "both a Spaniard and an American," Vicente Ibanes, author and playwright, declared he considered prohibition a good thing for "us Americans" when he arrived today on the Mauretania.

"Prohibition is undoubtedly a good thing," said Ibanes, "for after we visit foreign countries where we drink heavily, it is good to come home where we may find rest from our drinking bouts."

Fortune of Heart. New York, October 26.—William Randolph Hearst, newspaper publisher, has a personal fortune exceeding $25,000,000, it was declared today by Tillotson & Walcott, bankers, who made the announcement in declaring a new bond issue bore the unconditional guarantee and endorsement of Mr. Hearst.

CLAIM YOUNG WOMAN TRIED TO END LIFE

Mrs. J. C. Bussey, of 16 Hill street, was rushed to Grady hospital in a serious condition about 11:30 o'clock Friday night suffering from "poison" which, police believe, she took in an effort to end her life.

Her husband refused to make a statement concerning the alleged attempt at suicide, and the victim was unable to talk. Grady doctors said that she would recover.

COMMUNITY CHEST WORKERS READY

Continued from First Page. It is not worth anything; it is an absolute loss to the community. But when he buys immortal and imperishable things with it! When $600,000 is given by the love and sympathy of Atlanta, there is no mathematics in the world that could calculate the value of those dollars. They will become an imperishable source of spiritual health.

One of the finest things the campaign for the Community Chest is going to do, said Dr. Jones, is to bring a broader interest and a broader sympathy among the people of Atlanta. The appeal of the Community Chest, of social welfare work, is to nothing commercial, he said. It is something higher; a spiritual appeal to the very best and finest qualities of Atlanta's people.

"There isn't a church in Atlanta that could raise its budget on business principles or business appeal," he said. "There isn't a social service institution that could live three months on old business principles. There isn't anything to sell. There isn't a one of these agencies that has anything to sell. We are asking people to give unselfishly without thought of selfish profit. Don't let the people get the idea that they are giving money to the Associated Charities, or to the Boy Scouts, or to any other member of the Chest. I tell you, men and women, you are raising money for little children and babies and sick folk and victims of social injustice. You are raising money for people, for human beings. And don't you forget that, or let Atlanta forget it."

Large Attendance. The meeting of Community Chest speakers was largely attended. Mr. Underwood put his forces on notice that from now on they are subject to call until the campaign is over.

Roy P. Gates, director of the Chest preceded Dr. Jones with a short statement of the questions the speakers will have to answer in their hearers' minds. One of these, he said, will relate to the 8 per cent that is added to the total of agency budgets, for campaign and collection costs.

"All our cards are on the table," said he. "There is not one single detail of this work that you cannot sell yourselves on thoroughly. Every question is subject to immediate and convincing and truthful answer."

Mr. Gates said that though 8 per cent has been added for campaign and collection cost, the actual figure may not exceed 5 per cent. With that amount all printing and publishing and postage and clerical bills of the campaign will be paid and Community Chest headquarters will be operated for a year as the fiscal office of all the agencies and their clearing house for information and methods. The one item of postage alone, he said, will account for a large part of the year's expenses, in addition to office rent and minimum maintenance costs.

No Street Soliciting. Street and office solicitation of all kinds by any member of the Community Chest will be missed from now on. The executive committee Friday took definite action to secure the aid of every agency in putting a stop to solicitations by their representatives, numerous reports having reached the committee recently of such activities. Notwithstanding the recent action, the committee during the remainder of 1935, the committee took the position that the permanent good of all is paramount to the temporary good of one or two.

Plans were perfected Friday by the committee for its second tour of inspection Sunday among the agencies that are members of the Chest. The committee will leave the chamber of commerce at 10 o'clock Sunday morning for this purpose.

"Ready to function," was the report rendered for the special subscriptions committee Friday by Harold Hirsch, its chairman, when General Chairman E. R. Black called for the status of each committee. Mr. Hirsch has called a meeting of his committee for Monday evening.

R. L. Foreman, chairman of the individual subscribers' committee, reported his committee will meet Monday to shape final plans.

W. W. Orr, chairman of the committee for organizing large concerns reported the further organization of his committee, stating he has received the acceptance of 21 sectional chairmen thus far and expects more before Monday.

"Ready to Go." Marvin Underwood, chairman of the speakers' committee, reported "ready to go," and asked that all other departments of the campaign organization call upon his division from now on for speakers anywhere and at any time.

J. M. B. Hoxsey, general vice chairman of the Chest, addressed the City club Friday at noon on the Chest and its purposes. Mr. Hoxsey was given close attention and won the ardent approval of his audience.

H. E. Chouteau, sectional chairman of the wholesale division of W. W. Orr's committee, held a meeting of his division staff Friday afternoon in the freight bureau at the chamber of commerce. The meeting resulted in a clear plan of work and the organization of all details. Fifteen members attended.

Atlanta To Join Nation in Paying Tribute to Navy

Atlanta will join the nation in paying tribute to the United States navy today, which has been officially declared Navy Day. The program will be featured by a military parade, the twenty-second infantry at Fort McPherson, together with sailors and marines stationed here, marching through the principal streets of the city.

Mayor Walter A. Sims will review the parade from the steps of the city hall. The parade will form at the Georgian Terrace, on Peachtree street, and march to Five Points where it will make a right turn and march past the city hall. At Fort McPherson, the twenty-second infantry will be reviewed by the mayor. An official proclamation issued by Mayor Sims requests all citizens of Atlanta to join in the celebration of Navy Day by displaying flags and other appropriate actions.

Woman To Face Trial on Charge Of Slapping Boy

For administering two slaps to an 8-year-old boy, it is charged, Mrs. Samuel H. Traynham, of 48 Elmwood drive, Friday was made defendant in a municipal court warrant charging assault and battery.

The warrant was issued by Judge T. O. Hathecock on complaint of J. E. Wilhelm, of 27 Elmwood drive father of Thomas Turner Wilhelm, aged 8, said to have been the recipient of Mrs. Traynham's blows.

The slapping followed a quarrel between the Wilhelm lad and a small grandson of Mrs. Traynham, said to be Attorney Howard Stephens, plaintiff's counsel.

The warrant had not been served Friday night.

SPECIAL SERMON SERIES PLANNED BY REV. HARRELL

Two special series of sermons will be started next Sunday at the First Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Harrell, to continue through one month. The Sunday morning series will be under the general topic, "Sermons on Social Themes." This series will be introduced on next Sunday morning by the subject, "Is Our Civilization Christian or Pagan?" and will be continued as follows: November 11—"Christian Teaching Concerning the Family." November 18—"Christian Teaching Concerning the State." At a later date "Christianity and Our Industrial Problems" will be discussed.

The Sunday night sermons for the next month will be under the general topic, "Questions That Sometimes Threaten Our Faith," and the following will be the specific subjects: October 28—"Was Jesus Christ Divine or Was He Merely a Good Man?" November 4—"Did Jesus Rise from the Dead or Were the Apostles Mistaken?" November 11—"Is the Doctrine of Sudden Conversion Reasonable?" November 18—"May One's Soul Be Eternally Lost?"

BODY OF COSGROVE TO ARRIVE TODAY; SERVICES SUNDAY

The body of William L. Cosgrove, 64, prominent Atlanta, who died in England while on a tour around the world with his wife, will arrive in New York at the Peachtree station at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. Funeral services will be held at the residence of Brooks Morgan, 1053 Peachtree street, at 2:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Dr. W. W. Meuninger, rector of All Saints' church, officiating. Interment will be at West View. Mr. Cosgrove resided at Fifth and Myrtle street for many years. He came to Atlanta from Evanston, Ill., and was president of the Atlanta Gas company until its consolidation with the Georgia Railway and Power company. After the consolidation, he was an officer for a number of years before his retirement. Pallbearers will be Thomas C. Erwin, John W. Grant, C. E. Peters, C. T. Brockett, T. A. After the trip across the continent and back to Buffalo, the young hikers will take a few days' rest before beginning a tour on foot of Canadian provinces.

GEORGIA MASONS PAY HONOR TO WASHINGTON

Dr. Joe P. Bowdoin, grand master of Georgia Masons, Friday mailed a copper plaque, the gift of Georgia lodges, to Washington to be placed under the cornerstone of the Masonic memorial to George Washington, now being constructed at Alexandria, Va. The plaque, which is four inches square and five-eighths of an inch thick, bears the official seal of the grand lodge of Georgia. It will be placed in a box with similar gifts from all over the United States. The box will be sealed with appropriate ceremonies October 30.

JUDGES REAPPOINTED BY GOVERNOR WALKER

Judges T. O. Hathecock and L. F. McClelland have been reappointed to succeed themselves on municipal court benches in Atlanta by Governor Clifford Walker. It was announced at the capitol Friday. Terms of both the judges were due to expire shortly. Both jurists were recently nominated by the Fulton county superior court judges. This, however, practically amounts to nomination only, as the appointive power rests with the governor.

BOY SCOUT REVIEW AT PIEDMONT TODAY

Boy Scouts of Atlanta will assemble for the semi-annual review at Piedmont Park at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, was announced Friday by Boy Scout Executive A. A. Johnson. Personal and camp inspection will begin at 10:30 o'clock, and all troops will arrive at the camp sites in time to pitch camp before the inspection begins.

Other morning contests will include forestry, tent pitching, signaling, knot tying and wall climbing. Prizes will be awarded in each of the contests, and merit points will be given winners in the camp inspection.

Col. E. E. Fowey, president of the Atlanta Boy Scout court of honor, will lift Scout George Lewis of Troop 32, to the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest rank in scout activities.

The award of service ribbons to scouts will be one of the most interesting and impressive parts of the review, officials state. Service ribbons awarded will be as follows: Gold ribbon, awarded for 500 points, to Franklin E. Carter, Troop 10, and Kirk DeVore.

Green-Yellow ribbon, awarded for 250 points to Paul Butler, Troop 22. Red-White-Blue ribbon, which is awarded for 150 points, to Paul Butler, Troop 22; John Withers, Troop 38; Theodore Phillips, Troop 13. ## SUMMONS SERVED AS FORD POSES BEFORE CAMERA

Detroit, Mich., October 26.—Subpoena servers who for nearly six months have been endeavoring to serve a summons on Henry Ford in a damage suit, succeeded yesterday by appearing uninvited at the "shooting" of a motion picture film in which Mr. Ford and a threshing machine were the star performers. The summons was issued in connection with a suit for $100,000 damages brought against him by B. Frank Emery, who alleges received injuries in the "shooting" of a motion picture film in which Mr. Ford and a threshing machine were the star performers. Two deputy sheriffs, Fred Ginski and Arthur Barker, only a few days ago reported to Circuit Judge Henry Mandell that they had been unable to serve the manufacturer. Yesterday, they said, they wandered out to a farm house in the outskirts of Detroit and noticed preparations for the filming of a motion picture. As the camera crank began to turn Ginski stepped forward, the subpoena in one hand and a $2 bill the fee, in the other, and served them upon Mr. Ford. It was the first time in nine years, according to court attaches, that personal service on Mr. Ford has been obtained.

FAIR WEATHER TODAY

Temperatures Expected To Be Slightly Higher.

"Fair, Saturday, little change in temperature." So reads the forecast for Atlanta's weather conditions today. Official forecaster, C. F. von Herrmann, expects to see at least two more days of fine clear weather, with slightly higher temperatures, according to predictions made Friday. The mercury should hover around the 60 mark Saturday, higher in the middle of the day and probably somewhat lower in the early morning hours and late at night.

ONE LITTLE "NOT" CAUSES NEEDLESS HUM OF GOSSIP

Intrusion into a line of type of a simple "not," which had no business there, caused a needless hum of gossip Friday among Atlantans who have followed closely the fortunes of the Forsyth Players during their 84 weeks of existence in Atlanta.

The "not" changed the meaning of a simple statement of fact that "the latest change (in the company) is to be an amicable one and is not to be marked by any of the sensationalism that developed when Miss Belle Bennett was replaced by Miss Joel." It changed it to a broad intimation that there might be the same kind of sensationalism attendant on the latest shakeup in the cast.

Manager John Crovo, of the Lyric theater, into whose "tate" the "not" was intruded by the printer, without his knowledge or consent, and the present state of the company were both positive Friday in telling a whole wide world that no ill-will exists among members of the present company and no clashes of artistic temperament or jealousy have developed between any of the players.

Miss Joel, it was made very plain, is to leave the company after next week with the good wishes and the cordial friendship of every other member of the players and of the management of the theater and is to leave with the same sentiments on her part for them.

FULTON WOMAN SOLON TO FIGHT TAX ON INCOMES

Prediction that the general assembly of Georgia will remain in session at least long enough to see the Auburn Tech football game Thanksgiving day at the expense of the state was voiced by Miss Bessie Kempton, woman representative from Fulton county, in an impromptu address to the Atlanta chapter of the American Business club at luncheon in the Peacock cafe Friday afternoon.

Miss Kempton also promised determined opposition to the North Carolina plan of taxation and to any plan that embraces an income tax. She asserted that she did not believe an income tax could pass the assembly.

Dr. S. A. Folsom, former naval officer and member of the present naval reserve forces, was another speaker. He urged support for the nation's navy.

LANGLEY TO MAKE RACE FOR COUNCIL IN TWELFTH WARD

W. D. Langley Friday night announced his candidacy for council from the twelfth ward, and succeeded the late Councilman R. E. Gilliam in the general election, which will be held December 6. He has been prominently identified in local politics for the past few years and was a member of the merger committee when the question of the Kirkwood-Atlanta merger came before the voters for ratification.

Tax Commission Names Committee To Draft Report

Following the final executive session of the special tax commission Friday, Governor Walker announced that a sub-committee of three had been named to draft the final report of this body, which is to be submitted to the general assembly in special session on November 7.

The full commission reached agreement Friday on the principles which are to be embodied in this final report, the governor stated. In fact, so absolute is the unanimity of thought, that it is unlikely the complete commission will have to hold any further sessions. The sub-committee will draft the report, which will then be submitted to the various members by mail, with their approval practically assured.

The sub-committee named Friday consists of Dr. J. H. T. McPherson, of the University of Georgia; Judge U. Y. Whipple, of Condon, and Representative R. C. Ellis, of Tift county.

This sub-committee probably will meet early next week to work on the report. Following the conclusion of the full commission hearings, it is the general opinion of observers that the recommendations to be submitted to the legislature will be specific in their nature; that they will recommend changes in the present valorem system; enactment of better tax collection enforcement laws, and the passage of a limited state income tax. No official details of the report, however, will be given out until after it is formally adopted, the governor said.

YAARAB TEMPLE HOLDS DANCE AT EAST LAKE

Yaarab temple shriners Friday night with their ladies and visiting shriners as guests staged the first formal ball of the season at East Lake. Nobles were required to present their 1923 shrine cards to gain entrance.

Nobles reported Friday that the program given by the entertainment committee following the initiation of the fifty-one unregenerates Thursday night at the Auditorium was one of the best ever given by the organization.

Among the artists furnishing entertainment were the McKinley sisters, Stevens and Brannels and Mack and Volmar, now appearing at the Forsyth; Harper sisters, from the Howarth; the Hart trio, from the Metropolitan; Lottie Mayer and her diving girls, and Mlle. Irene's troupe of posing girls, from the shrine circus, which will begin its engagement at the Auditorium on November 1.

Aged Negro Dies.

Andersonville, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—"Uncle" Tom Martin, 90, well-known negro, died here today. "Uncle" Tom, as he was known here, lived in the same house on the farm of C. A. Johnson for ninety years. He was one of the negroes of old type, and was well known by all residents here.

MEN TO BENEFIT BUT PLANTS LOSE BY ELECTRICITY

Freeport, L. I., October 26.—Machinery may bring the four hour day for men, but it means a 24-hour day for vegetables and hens.

Horticulturists and electrical scientists conceded as much Friday as they inspected the group of flowers and vegetables at the Henderson experimental farm, where 500-watt power lamps are deceiving two dozen plants into growing at the double-quick.

Lettuce, beans, tomatoes, carnations, lilies, poppies and dahlias are among the vegetables and flowers being worked overtime by artificial lights. The deception has already

AGRICULTURE CHIEF SPEAKS IN SPARTA

Sparta, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, spoke here Thursday morning, a good crowd of farmers and business men being present on the fair grounds to hear his address. He spoke on agricultural problems now confronting the farmers of this section and gave them good, sound advice, as to combating the different pests that confront them.

Centre Meets Penn in Big Intersectional Battle

Nittany and West Virginia To Entertain Gotham Fans; Other Eastern Encounters

Many of the Larger Teams Are Complaining of Injuries—Dartmouth Crippled for Tilt With Harvard.

New York, October 26.—(By The Associated Press.)—With practically all the major eleven unable to muster their full first-string strength chiefly because of an unusually heavy casualty list, eastern football faces tomorrow its mid-season tests, including several of the keynote engagements of the fall.

Penn State and West Virginia, the two teams holding the center of the eastern gridiron stage are those between Penn State and West Virginia, in the Yankee stadium; Harvard and Dartmouth, at Cambridge; Princeton and the Naval academy, at Baltimore; Pennsylvania and Centre at Philadelphia; Yale and Brown, at New Haven, and Columbia and Williams at New York.

Five important contests of intersectional character also illuminate the program. Besides the clash between Penn State and Centre, "Praying Colonels" they include the contests between Oberlin and Amherst, at Amherst, Mass.; Marquette, of Milwaukee, and Boston college, at Boston; Washington and Jefferson, at Washington; and Ohio Wesleyan, at Hamilton, N. Y.

Seldom have the eleven as a whole entered such important battles under the handicaps they will face tomorrow, according to reports from camps which indicate a long array of injuries and other mishaps.

Penn State's Chances.
For instance, Penn State's chances in its clash with West Virginia, a contest likely to have an important bearing on the eastern championship situation, have been seriously impaired by the loss through injury of Mike Palm, star quarterback. Neither team has been defeated this season and West Virginia has not tasted a reverse since 1921. State proved its mottled last Saturday by trouncing the Navy, while the strong Pittsburgh eleven is among West Virginia's victims so far.

Dartmouth, in its drive for football glory against Harvard, will be without the services of Chuck Calder, its only worthwhile kicker and best all-round backfield man, and also Roy Kelly, Calder's understudy. The former was declared ineligible and the latter was injured in Thursday's practice.

At Harvard, however, Howe, first-string fullback, is out of the game, and the physical condition of Charles Eastman and Al Greenough, veteran linemen, is such that neither may be allowed to play.

Rutan Out of Game.
Princeton will enter the Navy game without Frank Rutan, one of the Tiger's bulwarks in a line that appears to its full complement of strength.

Boston college, about to face Marquette, a team which has tasted defeat but once in three years, will play up without Harold Ward, its powerful fullback, and Arthur McManus, star lineman.

Columbia, ambitious to avenge two successive defeats at the hands of Williams, may not have the services of Captain Walter Coppick, the team's greatest all-around star.

These upsets to varsity combinations have altered tomorrow's outlook considerably. Penn State, originally an even choice in its struggle with West Virginia, is expected to have difficulty overcoming the Mountaineers. Dartmouth's losses have somewhat dimmed the hitherto bright chance of a Green victory over Harvard, which was held to a tie by Middlebury, and able to defeat Holy Cross by one touchdown, and Columbia, following a similar defeat by Princeton, appear strong enough to stop Williams.

Yale appears capable of handling any opposition Brown may furnish, but the Princeton game, which is smarting from decisive defeats last week, apparently are evenly matched, a contest which, while interesting, will be less bearing on title aspirations than originally was expected.

SHADE WINS FROM WELLS

BY WESTBROOK FEGLER

United News Staff Correspondent.
Ringside, Madison Square Garden, New York, October 26.—Because of the temporary banishment of Mickey Walker, who actually won the welterweight championship from Jack Britton a year ago, a plebiscite of punches was held in the Garden ring Friday night to elect a regent for the interregnum. Dave Shade, of California, and Billy Wells, the Englishman who played for Gold to Jack Dempsey's Papyrus in the heavyweight championship's training camp at Great Falls, Mont., were the nominees. Shade won the decision after 15 rounds in which Wells beat almost to death. So Shade is the welterweight champion, pro-temp.

Wells fell headlong through the ropes and almost into the knockdown timer's lap in the fourteenth round, so weak was he from the loss of good old British gore. Again in the same round he made a swing at Shade which seemed to boomerang back and hit the Englishman, who own chin. At any rate his own punch flopped him heavily to his seat and he rolled to his weary feet more out

Wells Good Prospect.
Next to Walker, Shade is considered the best welterweight there is. Wells was imported from Great Britain last year by Charlie Harvey, who has the sole American agency for John Bull's output of boxers. Harvey fought Wells around in the small arenas and Wells ran up quite a sizeable reputation for himself at the expense of several middleweights including Jack Malone.

Wells brought to mind the reputation of the ancient Young Griffo as he rolled his head and body in the first five rounds, slipping Shade's punches off his face by the merest fractions of inches. He seemed untouchable, but he was holding guard and his hands were not in the matter of a few rounds of that style of boxing until Shade would catch the knuckle and nail him, for Shade is a boxer, too.

As the fight went on it was Shade who developed the better defense and Wells, who had been called a wizard at the clever style of boxing, was missing with lunges with both hands. He was almost amateurish in his knock and his style was to win except for that instant in the fourteenth when he had Shade careening for a moment from a left on the jaw.

LEGION WILL DETAIL JACKET-IRISH GAME

The American Legion has made arrangements to give the returns of the Georgia Tech-Notre Dame football game, play by play, in its regular club rooms at 14 1-2 Marietta street.

There will be no admission charged and football fans within the organization are cordially invited to hear the returns. The officials of the American Legion are taking this opportunity to introduce the members to their new club rooms.

TECHBOXERS IN BATTLES

The Georgia Tech boxing team will swing into action Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the gymnasium over the Tudor theater for the first time during the present school term.

There will be five rounds bouts as a preliminary attraction with one 6-round battle as a windup.

The price of admission is 50 cents. Boxing instructor Elsom has been working with the Tech boxing team for the past three weeks and has arranged a card that will eclipse any ever offered since Georgia Tech took up boxing.

Each of the fights on the card has been planned so as to give the fans the very best in entertainment.

The card follows: L. Leureaux vs. Grissel, 6 rounds; Hanson, Grissel vs. Wilson, 6 rounds; Eystein, Rogers vs. Dubose and Gibbs vs. Gilkerson as the main bout.

GRIFFIN WINS OVER ALBANY

Albany, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—Griffin High defeated Albany High here this afternoon, 18 to 2, in a well-played football game, in which Griffin held the edge.

The Spalding county team excelled at the overhead game, making several long gains on end runs and hurling numerous forward passes. Griffin and Stafford showed great skill in plucking from the air.

Griffin's first touchdown came in the third quarter when Brewer placed the ball on Albany's 25-yard line on an intercepted forward pass, and Walker swept right end for a touchdown, after end runs had placed the ball on the 17-yard line.

Walker scored another touchdown in the third quarter on a 40-yard end run after successive forward passes had carried the ball more than half the length of the field.

In the fourth quarter another series of forward passes carried the ball deep in Albany's territory, and Imes broke through left tackle, shook off the tacklers and went thirteen yards for a touchdown.

Albany had several opportunities to score, but lacked the final punch to win. The game was a close one, with Albany leading 10-0 at the half. Griffin's only score was a safety in the final quarter, following the failure of Albany to kick a field goal.

Albany's best play was a pass to the end, which was caught by the end, who then ran for a touchdown. Albany's defense was excellent, and they kept the ball out of Albany's hands.

AUBURN RATS WIN EASILY

Auburn, Ala., October 26.—(Special.)—The Auburn Tigers triumphed over the Troy Normal football team this afternoon by a score of 35 to 0.

During the first half, this contingent totaled 12 points. In the second half a new freshman defensive line replaced those who were with the initial kickoff. The second team to face the Normals put up a better brand of football than did the first. They made 20 points in the third quarter. In the quarter Pete Hassler, former Ensey High star, kicking out of the end, scored three points when he landed the oval through the uprights for a field goal from a very difficult angle.

Hassler made his first play, the feature of the day, when he creled the end for 45 yards and a touchdown when play started in the second half. The Auburn freshmen were prone to fumble, which necessarily cut the score to a lower figure.

SARAZEN IS RACE WINNER

Laurel, Md., October 26.—Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt's unbeaten Sarazen was crowned king of 1923's two-year-olds this afternoon when he galloped away from Edward P. Sima's previously undefeated filly, Happy Thoughts, in the $15,000 race here.

The winner's time for the six furlongs was 1:11. Earl Sande had Sarazen off first and he was never headed. At the half Sarazen led by 20 feet. The race marked the ninth consecutive victory for Mrs. Vanderbilt's little star.

In addition to the stake the trophy brought Sarazen a silver trophy valued at $500.

After the race Sarazen was turned into six points. Although he was downed in the 9-yard line by Smith, he took it over later on a line buck.

Newman gained ground on end runs and Sarazen was two very good flank defenders, and little ground has been made around either wing in any game this year.

Decatur was a mighty good team and if she will only play the football she is capable of she will probably come out on top in all of her remaining games. If she does do this, she will have completed a successful season and will be a strong contender for the state, as well as local prep title.

Decatur Defeats Newnan Eleven by 34 to 6 Score

DeKalb County Attack Reached Highest Points in the First and Third Quarters.

BY GORDON KEITH.
Playing spectacular football, DeKalb High turned back the invaders from Newnan by a 34-6 score Friday afternoon. Decatur got right down to business and pushed two markers across in the opening quarter. Both goals were kicked by B. Griffin.

In the second quarter Decatur took another of her sleepy apoplexy and dozed through the period without scoring again, nor holding particularly well. The half ended 14 to 0 in favor of the home team.

Decatur came back with a vengeance in the third period and accounted for three more touchdowns. She seemed to be satisfied with this margin for she slowed down for the second time and failed to score in the last frame.

She was fanned to tackle properly for a Newnan back slipped away for a beautiful 60-yard run around and through the entire DeKalb squad, but was not quite fast enough to hold on to his lead after getting it and was brought down on the 9-yard line by Ross Smith after a merry chase. Decatur played brilliant ball in the first and third quarters and really showed what she could do. Coach Button's charges are going to have a hard time of it. He sifted through the entire team, and had been a little

Game at South Bend Starts At 2:30 O'Clock; Albright To Play Half for Jackets

Georgia Tech Team Determined To Make Nation Sit Up and Take Notice—Dope Favors Rockne's Great Team.

THE LINE-UPS.
South Bend, Ind., October 26. (Special.)—Coach Rockne and Alexander, pilots of Notre Dame and Georgia Tech, respectively, announced their line-ups for Saturday's game as follows:
TECH. Pos. NOTRE D. Staton, L. Collins, Werner, L. Bach, McIntyre, L. Brown, Frye, L. Kiser, Huffines, L. Obest, Gardner, L. Stulhofer, Albright, L. Crowley, R. Reeves, L. Miller, Wycoff, L. Cerney, Referee, Birch, umpire, Street.

BY PAUL WARWICK.
Special Staff Correspondent.

South Bend, Ind., October 26.—(Special.)—Possessed of a firm determination which comes within an eyelash's width of being the confidence of the Georgia Tech's football team, in good condition, awaits its trial, by maybe worse than fire, in its contest tomorrow afternoon with Notre Dame. At any rate, the team shows far less trepidation than is being generally evidenced by its supporters.

The Tornado will start a formidable line-up and is remarkably free from disabilities which will make any material difference in its strength, either offensive or defensive. Werner will set himself at the outset in that tackle position most usually occupied by Mearle or Uary and Jerry Albright will begin the struggle at the half which has formerly fallen to the lot of Ivan Williams at the referee's opening whistle. Aside from these alterations, the outfit will stack up as it has in its former contests.

There's nothing much to remark about the impending conflict. The squad is setting an excellent example by saying nothing. Actions have to be justified by deeds, and the men appear to think, and they are cognizant of the fact that their actions must precede a golden silence until the assault they meet the Micks on the Notre Dame field at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

A light workout Friday afternoon, which straightened out the kinks engendered by a long and fatiguing trip. Just a mere matter of running a limited quantity of signals, marked the team's business activities on Friday.

Kiwianians Entertain.
That marked its business activity, you understand. It's social calendar was quite a different thing. Ere the morning dawned, the team had become accustomed to its own glare, the thirty young component parts of the Tornado were being whisked about the city of Indianapolis, in automobiles, piloted by representatives of that city's Kiwanis club. The squad had an extensive wait-er in that enterprising place and the entertaining feature was quite a welcome feature.

Friday night they will try to settle the age-old query, "Who Bent South Bend?" and will be guests at a theater party given by the Notre Dame student body, who are entertaining their own famous team at the same fell swoop. After that, the thirty will traipse off to their beds in the Hotel Oliver and will sleep the sleep of the just.

It seems that the most valiant effort to straighten out South Bend will be made Saturday night, when the "Golden Tornado Dance" advertised by clamorous posters in the hotel lobby, will be staged.

It is intimated that this will be nothing less than an old-fashioned Irish wake.

From the four corners of this autumn-hulling performance, the opportunities are drifting in. Chip Robert, Frank Holland, Howard McCutcheon, Jess Daniel, Little Earl, and the head and tail of Chip Roberts, Marshall Whitman, once of Atlanta, but now of Lima, Ohio, and several others are already on hand. A fresh influx from Chicago is expected tomorrow morning and the only even money bet yet discovered is one that Bill Glavier, once of the Tornado squad, will be in that list of arrivals.

PACIFIC COAST FANDOM WANTS NOTRE DAME

San Francisco, October 26.—The Olympic club of San Francisco is seeking a post-season football game with Notre Dame.

"Babe" Hollinberry, Olympic football commissioner, yesterday telegraphed Coach Knute Rockne, asking his terms for a game to be played early in December. Between $4,000 and $8,000 was guaranteed Notre Dame, Hollinberry said.

SEWANEE AND PETRELS CLASH AT GRANT FIELD TODAY

Jacket and Gator Freshmen Will Meet in Preliminary; To Detail Tech-Notre Dame

Atlanta Fans Keen to See the Tigers That Held Alabama to Lone Touchdown in Recent Encounter.

BY BILL MORROW.

Meeting for the fourth time in their respective grid histories, the Oglethorpe Petrels and the Sewanee Tigers are picked to stage a terrific battle for supremacy this afternoon when these rivals meet at 2:30 o'clock, Grant Field being the scene of the hostilities. The Tech and Florida freshmen will clash at 1 o'clock in the semi-windup and the play by play returns of the Tech-Notre Dame scrap will also be on tap for the spectators that attend the Oglethorpe-Sewanee mixup.

The Sewanee aggregation failed to arrive yesterday as originally planned and are expected to hit town at 7 o'clock this morning. It was believed that the Tigers would come down a little early and have at least one practice on Grant Field, but Coach Bennett of the Tigers evidently did not approve of this scheme, and held the Tigers over to practice in their native haunts.

Reports have been few from the Sewanee camp as to the condition of that force, but it is certain that the Tigers will have a powerful eleven to face the Petrels. Following their good exhibition in holding the Alabama team to one lone touchdown, the Tigers have not been idle but have been laboring in an effort to turn in another winning card against the Petrels.

Petrels Stronger.
The Stormy Petrels much stronger this season—and profiting by their campaigns with Tech, Georgia and Centre, are picked to put more effective opposition in the way of the charging Tigers. The Oglethorpe defense is considered much better this year and with Adrian Maurer, "Frog" Gordy and other fast steppers in the backfield, the Petrels are picked to show their heels to their rivals on more than one occasion.

Sewanee carries no small kick in her backfield, but the defensive department is considered the best of their two phases of grid play. Their line is strong and heavy while the fighting spirit of the Tigers is well known in the southland.

The Tigers came through their battle last Saturday with only four players getting more than the customary slight injuries. Captain Litton, Miller, Gooch and W. Kent received injuries during the afternoon's contest but are expected to take their regular positions against the

CONFERENCE GAMES GOOD

Chicago, October 26.—An untimely and the second of the football aspirations would not bring surprise to any of the big ten contestants, judging from today's reports from their training camps as the heavy practice of the week ended. Chances of surviving tomorrow's struggles on five gridiron are being painted in dark, uncertain colors.

Wisconsin, with a homecoming crowd of 36,000 on the side lines demanding victory in the feature contest of the day, will meet its traditional foe, Minnesota.

Illinois, doped as a principal contender for the Big Ten championship is telling of its weakness as it prepares to meet Northwestern here tomorrow.

Southwestern regular tackles, Brown and Hall, are reported out of the game with the line strength uncertain.

Chicago, after its victory over Northwestern Saturday morning, both teams having finished a week of their own at Columbus tomorrow, both teams having finished a week of strenuous practice.

Both teams contemplate sending their second string eleven against the Michigan Aggies Saturday.

JUNIOR HIGH TEAMS CLASH

Junior High school athletes will clash again Saturday morning when the Joe Brown eleven meets the Hoke Smith team on the Grant Park gridiron.

John is the second game for Coach Elsworth's men and after a week of strenuous practice the team has developed into a smooth working machine.

Hoke Smith, under the direction of Coach Maddock, will get their first taste of battle.

Both teams are evenly matched and football fans are due for a real treat when the whistle calls them together. Junior admirers of both teams will be on hand to cheer their teams to victory.

Be a booster, come out to Grant Park and watch the boys bring the Junior High athletics into the bigger circles of Atlanta's football program. Joe Brown will present the following line-up:

MERCER TEAM WINS, 12 TO 0

Macon, Ga., October 26.—In the last eight minutes of play in the final quarter, this afternoon, Mercer University scored two touchdowns and won the game from Birmingham Southern, 12 to 0.

Mercer had the advantage most of the way, but on several occasions Birmingham Southern kept the Baptists for downs when within five yards of the goal line.

A forward pass, Cecil to Smith, for a distance of twenty yards, netted the first touchdown.

Five minutes later, with only three minutes to play, Tamm Bowling carried the ball twenty-five yards through a broken field, placing the ball on Birmingham Southern's 2-yard line. Bowling bucked the line for the second touchdown on the next play.

The game was played on a rough sod field at the State Exposition, the condition of the field slowing up the work of both teams. End runs were almost impossible. Birmingham Southern executed a number of forward passes successfully, in which department Mercer was weak.

The line-up and summary:

B. SOUTHERN: Pos. M. (12) O. S. Gaudy (C.) I. E. Evans (L.) J. Lancaster Weeks (R.) G. Carson Ashwander (R.) Henderson Scott (R.) McDonald W. Howell (R.) Smith Miller (R.) Cecil (C.) Richardson (R.) E. Williams (R.) R. Rice Farr (R.) Lynch

Score by periods:

B. Southern: 0 0 0 0—0 Mercer: 0 0 0 0—12

Scoring: Touchdowns, Smith and Bowling (substituted by Lynch). Referee, Severance (Oberlin); umpire, Pugh (Georgia); head linesman, Major Jones (West Point).

ATLANTA AND W. TENN. MEET

Football fans are looking forward with great interest to what promises to be one of the hardest fought local games of the season when the champions of Tennessee journey down to the Gate City to do battle with the Atlanta University Crimson Hurricane, colored champions of the southeast.

Saturday's game will be the first meeting of these two teams, neither of which lost a game last season. During last year's campaign the Tennesseans and the Hurricane both defeated the strong team of Fisk University by a 7-6 score. So all indications point toward a close, keenly contested battle, with the "odds" just about "even."

Both teams are in superb condition for the fray, although it is quite probable that Captain Lang, of the Hurricane, will not be able to start the game due to injuries received in last Saturday's game with Tuskegee.

The battle was to have been staged at Ponce de Leon, but, by means of a recent reversal of decision, the Atlanta University athletic field has been settled upon as the site of the game.

All local fans are urged to be on hand at 2 o'clock to see the Hurricane warriors in their attempt to stem the tide of foreign invasion.

Warwick, Jamison and Staton "Covering" for Constitution

Tech and Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. today!

That is the big gridiron battle so far as fans of this section are concerned and The Constitution, as usual, will keep its subscribers in intimate touch with every development of the struggle.

Our line-up is Paul Warwick, Dick Jamison and John Staton!

Most of you already know them and those of you that don't will do well to get acquainted. You'll like their stuff.

Warwick, a polished writer, loves football and is a keen observer of the pastime. Jamison, as sporting editor of The Constitution years ago, was the south's authority during his stay in this section, and John Staton, the Jackets' left end, is the outstanding flankman in Dixie.

These writers are going to miss nothing that goes on during the game this afternoon. Remember this and buy your Constitution early.

Athens Fans Will Witness Two Grid Battles Today

Georgia Reserves Take On Aggies and Freshmen Will Entertain the North Carolinians.

Athens, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—With the Georgia varsity taking an off day, the stage is all set for the doubleheader tomorrow on Sanford field in which the freshmen of Georgia and the center of North Carolina will meet.

The Georgia reserves, while the Aggies reserves, tackle Dahlonega. The activities start at 2:30 o'clock when the Bulldog second team lines up against Paige Bennett's eleven from the gold mine region.

The Bulldogs' freshman squad has performed on three occasions this fall and in all three games the first-year team has shown nobly, winning from Riverdale, Clemson freshmen and Auburn freshmen by decisive scores. Their record has really been sensational to the present, their success being due both to excellent material and effective coaching.

VIRGINIA AND TRINITY PLAY

Durham, N. C., October 26.—(Special.)—Undaunted by the recent defeats at the hands of Carolina and William and Mary, the Trinity Blue Devils are determined to show Virginia on Saturday a smooth working machine, with stronger attack than it possessed in the last two games.

Coach Steiner has put his squad through a hard week of practice in preparation for the game, and Trinity is expected to give their old rivals of thirty years ago a lively tussle.

The Trinity line-up will be different from those in former games this season, due to injuries suffered by several of the varsity players in the Carolina and William and Mary games.

At left guard will be filled by Porter or Ray. Both porter and Ray are well over the 200-pound class. It is possible that Simons will appear in the line-up at either guard or tackle.

There are many other good games scheduled in southern territory which are awaiting to attract a large number of spectators. While Georgians are awaiting the result of the contest between the Golden Tornado and Knute Rockne's "wonder eleven," they will have as their principal local attraction the game between Sewanee and Oglethorpe. At Columbus, Auburn will meet the Fort Benning team, while at Athens, the University of Georgia Bulldogs will rest.

Close followers of the game are not expecting Tech to win from Notre Dame, but have been content with predictions that the Tornado will hold its opponent to a close score. There are others, though, who express the opinion no one can tell how a football game will end and that Tech has just as good a chance of winning as the Indiana aggregation.

Although the record of the Tornado has been unusual this season, it goes into its game with no defeats chalked up against it. Florida held the Georgians to a 7-7 tie. Notre Dame, however, has attracted the attention of the entire country this season as a result of its spectacular playing. Both the Army and Princeton are among the eleven teams that have lost to Rockne's men.

PANI TO FOLLOW DEBT FUND PLAN

Mexico City, October 26.—The Huerta-Lamont agreement for funding the Mexican foreign debt will be fully carried out, the chamber of deputies was assured by Secretary of Finance Pani yesterday during his appearance before the house for information regarding the financial condition of the republic and his recent charges of financial mismanagement which Señor de la Huerta was financial secretary.

Senor Pani assured the chamber that the foreign bankers' committee would receive the scheduled 20,000,000 pesos. Replying to a query from Deputy Prieto Laurana, he denied that he ever said that the government was bankrupt. Instead his assertion was that it was "marching straight to disaster."

TO PROBE VIOLATIONS OF SHIP LIQUOR RULE

Washington, October 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—Renewed violations in New York of the supreme court's ship liquor ruling have been reported to the department of justice and are being investigated with a view to possible seizure of the vessels involved.

Officials here decline to disclose the registry of these ships, which are said to have been procuring liquor from their bars and selling liquor on board as they cross the three-mile limit on their eastward voyage. This is done without stopping and without time to secure liquor from run runners hovering off New York, and is regarded by officials here as prima facie evidence that liquor was retained aboard illegally while the ships were in American waters.

The present investigation by the department of justice, officials said today, is designed to secure concrete evidence of secret retention by ships of their bar supplies upon entering New York. If the evidence is secured, responsible officials declared that seizure proceedings would be instituted.

Agents of both the department of justice and the state department also have been investigating the operations of Lieut. Col. Sir Brodick Hartwell, of London, who has been advertising in newspapers for funds to finance shipments of liquors to the American coast for transfer to run-runners. A report from the American embassy at London on Sir Brodick's activities has been transmitted by the state department to the department of justice, showing that Sir Brodick promised financial backers profits of 20 per cent in sixty days.

In their inquiry the government agents have uncovered in addition some evidence of what officials say appears to be an "extensive campaign" by British distillers to sell liquor for American consumption. Identity of the distillers reported concerned and of their American agents is being sought by the justice department.

GOVERNOR PARKER HAS HIRED HALL TO ATTACK KLAN

New Orleans, La., October 26.—Governor Parker, of Louisiana, whose fight on the Ku Klux Klan has attracted nationwide attention, has rented the Athenaeum, the largest auditorium in New Orleans, for Monday night, and will deliver an address to the people of New Orleans which the New Orleans Daily States says will include what he knows about the Klan in Louisiana, and its relation to the present state campaign.

The governor, at Baton Rouge, confirmed the report that he would speak here and his office promised later in the day a statement that would explain the subjects and object of the address. It was said Mr. Parker would give an accounting of his stewardship during his administration and would defend every action he had taken.

The state campaign preliminary to the democratic primary in January, at which time candidates for all state, parish and district offices will be nominated, now is on. Alleged sympathy of various candidates with the Klan so far has been the principal ammunition of many candidates and the governor's proposed discussion of the subject is expected to bring it to the front all along the line.

Pre-Roman Ruins Bared in Italy; Tombs Uncovered

Ferrara, Italy, October 26.—Ruins of an entire ancient city, believed to antedate the Romans by perhaps a thousand years, have been discovered near here. More than a hundred tombs have been uncovered, together with the remains of a number of persons buried in them.

There are traces of an immense temple, fragments of which are being placed together in an effort to decipher the markings and trace the origin of the city. Wearing apparel and numerous jewels and vases with elaborate artistic designs resembling Greek forms were found in the tombs. Some experts point out that it may have been an Etruscan city, the language of which is still unknown, as no traces are left to form sufficient material as a basis for translation. Others believe it to be the ancient town of Spina.

GERMANY NOT TO TRY TO FLOAT LOAN HERE

New York, October 26.—Germany has no chance to float a loan in this or any other country until the reparations question has been settled, Otto Wiedfeldt, German ambassador to the United States, declared today on his return from Berlin on the steamship Resolute. He said that the German government will make no attempt to float such a loan, he added, until the reparations matter has been straightened out. The German ambassador refused to discuss the proposal for American participation in allied reparations conference, saying he has as yet had no opportunity to consider it.

He expressed himself freely, however, on the German separatist movement, emphatically declaring that the Rhineland republic would end in speedy failure.

No German state can withdraw from the German confederation any easier or more successfully than one of your American states—Pennsylvania for instance—could withdraw from the United States," he said. "This separatist movement will be soon and Chancellor Stresemann's government will survive."

In many parts of Germany, he added, France was held to be behind the separatist movement. On this point, however, he said, he could say nothing of his own knowledge. Herr Wiedfeldt ridiculed any possible political significance in the reported desire of the German crown prince to return to the fatherland, saying Germany did not face the possibility of the restoration of the monarchy.

"The crown prince merely wants to see his wife and children," he said. At present, he reiterated, Germany is unable to make decisions in cash, adding that it might be able to pay small amounts in coal.

Stood Toe-to-Toe And Emptied Guns Into Each Other

Teague, Texas, October 26.—Two men stood toe-to-toe, their left hands locked together, shot each other to death in a barn at Young, Freestone county, Wednesday evening. Their smoking revolvers spat bullets until neither could pull the trigger again.

The principals in the shooting, one of the grimmest pistol duels Texas ever saw, were Norwood Hucksby and Charles A. Williams.

Every chamber of two pistols had been discharged.

Hucksby took his horse into the barn, which was located on property occupied by him, shortly after dusk Wednesday evening. A few minutes later Williams, accompanied by a son and another man, drove up and proceeded into the barn.

Residents of a nearby house had their first intimation of trouble when they heard a volley of crackling pistol shots.

Former trouble between the two men, in which Hucksby received a bullet wound in the leg, was believed to be the motive for the shooting.

Americus Director In Jefferson Drive To Be Dan Chappell

New York, October 26.—(Special.) Announcement was made today at national headquarters of the Thomas Jefferson memorial foundation that Dan Chappell, of the Planters Bank building of Americus, Ga., has been appointed chairman of the committee in that city, which will raise the city's quota of the $1,000,000 fund needed for the acquisition and endowment as a national memorial of Monticello, Jefferson's home in Albemarle county, Virginia.

The quota for Americus is only $200, which, based on an estimated population of 9,101, means a contribution of a few cents per capita.

The low total assigned to Americus and the modest per capita contribution asked from the people of that city is in line with the aim of the board of governors of the Jefferson memorial foundation, who are seeking a thoroughly national participation in the project of making a national shrine of Monticello and are hopeful that every community in every state of the union will bear its share in making up the fund.

WAR NAVY MERGER TO BE REJECTED

Washington, October 26.—Consolidation of the war and navy departments into a department of national defense as provided in the government reorganization plan worked out by the commission engaged in a study of that proposal probably will not be approved by President Coolidge.

The reorganization plan was taken up today by President Coolidge and his cabinet and although the proposal of merging the war and navy departments was not reached, it became known that the president would hesitate to recommend such a consolidation, in passing the general plan on to congress for necessary legislative action.

Consolidation of the war and navy departments has been opposed by a board of army and navy officers and also has failed to receive the approval of the present secretaries of the two departments. The president believes while such a merger may be logical, yet changes in governmental institutions cannot always follow logical policies but often-times must be made dependent on history and governmental growth.

Mr. Coolidge furthermore believes that even should later study convince him that consolidation of the war and navy departments is feasible and advantageous it should be provided in a separate piece of legislation because of its importance rather than combining it with a general reorganization scheme.

The general features of the reorganization plan only were discussed today by the president and his cabinet and questions upon which there is a difference of opinion were left to later meeting of a cabinet committee that Walter P. Brown, chairman of the reorganization committee, will be present.

Tribute Is Paid Capt. J. W. English At Birthday Party

BY PARKS RUSK.
Captain James W. English was born 86 years ago tomorrow, but if he hadn't confessed to that at age 24, he would have been 100 today because his anniversary falls this year on Sunday, the hundred or more guests would have regarded the statement with considerable skepticism when they saw their host trotting with Miss Jennie Robinson to one of those "Lovin' Sam" tunes.

"He danced with all the enthusiasm and buoyancy of youth, and proved such a gallant match for the granddaughter he had chosen for his partner that the guests paused in their merry-making to admire the picturesque couple."

His hearty participation in the frolics of the evening about 100 of his friends that a man is as young as he feels. In a gracious little after-dinner speech he had just a few minutes previously told his guests that he expected to celebrate at least fourteen more birthdays, "to make it an even hundred," as he put it.

The Piedmont Driving club was tastefully decorated for the occasion. Dinner was served at 8 o'clock, and dancing continued until midnight. Guests included officers and directors of the Fourth National Bank, founded by Captain English, bank employees and his immediate relatives. It has been his annual custom for several years to entertain his family and his co-workers on the occasion of his birthday.

Roses Are Presented.
A bouquet of 86 roses was presented to Captain English by J. A. Hynds on behalf of the bank officers and directors. The speaker referred to Captain English as Atlanta's "master builder."

"No man has given more of his time and energy and genius than has Captain English," he said. Mr. Hynds reviewed the career of the pioneer Atlantan. He told of his service in the Virginia army under Robert E. Lee during the civil war, of his coming to Atlanta "with his rugged health, his strong mind, and his clean heart," and of his later activity in every forward movement for Atlanta; of his long period of service as chairman of the police board, and of his formation of the Fourth National Bank, 33 years ago.

The rugged health, strong mind and clean heart that was his heritage have served him to this day," Mr. Hynds declared.

It was then that Captain English, in accepting the flowers, made known that he expects to live to see the celebration of his one hundredth birthday.

At present Captain English is chairman of the board of directors of the Fourth National bank, having resigned from the presidency a few years ago. He is unusually active, attending to his bank duties daily, and displays remarkable vitality for a man of his years. He has hundreds of friends throughout the south who will wish him continued health and happiness on tomorrow, his eighty-sixth birthday.

LIONS BATTLE W. VA., TODAY

New York, October 26.—Tomorrow, with mid-season well under way, the football drama will begin to shape itself for the climax. Many thrilling battles are scheduled and fans in almost every football center in the east will have the opportunity to cheer themselves hoarse.

No game promises to be harder fought than that between Penn State and West Virginia at the Yankee stadium in New York, and when Yale meets a worthy opponent in Brown, the result will not be a great surprise no matter what it is.

The Navy and Princeton will walk the grids in Baltimore. The Tigers received a serious jolt yesterday when Frank Rutan, star tackle, was injured so severely in a scrimmage that he will be unable to play tomorrow. Charley Caldwell, star center, will also be out of play.

Harvard and Dartmouth will come together in their yearly contest and the Crimson, it is said by observers, will have to move faster than heretofore this season, for no team can rest through a game with Dartmouth. The Harvard varsity has been working up its defense system all week, and probably will need it.

Of these four headlines the Penn State-West Virginia battle is receiving the greatest attention. Both are unusually strong. West Virginia has beaten Pittsburgh, and Penn State has overpowered the Navy. Both teams have powerful attacks and the sparks should fly.

The St. John, New Brunswick, dry dock is now an accomplished work and will be officially opened on October 29 this year. It is the largest dry dock in North America and capable of accommodating the largest ship in the British navy.

Auburn Plainsmen Stage Last Campus Game Today

Will Battle Fort Benning Officers and Big Crowd Is Expected To Witness Struggle.

Auburn, Ala., October 26.—(Special.)—Saturday afternoon at Drake field the Auburn Plainsmen will meet the Doughboy team from Fort Benning in their annual gridiron game which has after three years assumed the characteristics of an annual classic. In 1920 the infantrymen made their first pilgrimage across the Chattahoochee to the Auburn plains. The game resulted in a 14 to 2 victory for the Plainsmen. This game proved to be one of the hardest fought contests of the season. In 1921 a closer margin of 14 to 7 resulted in a Tiger victory. The first two years McQuarrie, famous back and punter from West Point did the kicking for Benning and his efforts booting the ball gave the Tigers a hard task to overcome. The game last season was Auburn 31, Benning 0.

TARHEELS TO BATTLE MD. WINDER WINS CLOSE GAME

Washington, October 26.—(Special.)—University of Maryland's varsity gridiron players were given a large dose of mental football in their indoor practice held in the College Park gymnasium, in preparation for the game Saturday with North Carolina in the old line team's stadium.

Taking the varsity eleven in tow, Coach Byrd gave them a 3-hour blackboard drill, which was followed by short passing and formation work. On the signal drill Byrd acted as quarterback, giving minute instruction as to what plays should be used at each position on the gridiron during a combat. The coach emphatically stated in his short talk that the main faults with his team were mental sluggishness and slowness in getting down on punts.

All of the players will be ready for the Tarheels Saturday, except Hugh Besley's ankle is coming around all right and he should be able to get back on the field tomorrow. Hugh, at the best, will not play before Catholic university is met on November 24, and may not get into the lineup before Hopkins is engaged Thanksgiving day in the final game of the campaign.

North Carolina, which will have had a 10-day rest when it faces Maryland, is certain to put a fast, well-coordinated team on the College Park field Saturday, and the Black and Gold will have to play an alert game if it can hope to win. However, it doesn't seem possible that the players will repeat the mistakes made against V. P. I.

A large crowd is expected to turn out to see the old rivals play.

FORBES DENIES GRAFT CHARGES

Washington, October 26.—From his place of seclusion here Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, issued a statement today denying as "utterly and absolutely false" the story of Elias H. Mortimer, of Philadelphia, before the senate investigating committee, of alleged bribery and corruption in connection with contracts for veterans' bureau hospitals.

"I do not feel that I ought to make any statement in advance of the full and complete testimony which I shall give under oath on the witness stand," said Mr. Forbes' statement. ## WINDER WINS CLOSE GAME

Winder, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—Winder High defeated Atlanta this afternoon by the score of 6 to 0.

It was the prettiest game that has ever been played on the Winder field. Winder making the touchdown in the last minute of play. C. Camp carried the ball over.

The features of the game from the Winder standpoint were the playing of Perry and Harris, Harris recovering three fumbles, and his backing up of the line.

For Moultrie, Captain Reed was the outstanding star, making several long gains. Referee Smith, (Georgia), umpires Rogers, of R. M. A.

MRS. MALLORY YET MAY PLAY IN OLYMPICS

New York, October 26.—(By The Associated Press.)—Tennis enthusiasts were relieved today to learn that no definite decision had been reached on the status of Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, who yesterday was reported to be ineligible to compete for America in the olympics next year.

While apparently barred because she competed for her native country, Norway, in the olympics of 1912, members of the olympic committee said last night that the regulations might be construed so as to permit her to represent America at Paris in 1924.

YOU NEED a fat as good as Wesson Oil to make fried food as delicious and wholesome as fried food ought to be.

The goodness of food fried in Wesson Oil is due to the goodness of Wesson Oil—pure, delicate, good-to-eat salad oil.

The wholesomeness of food fried in Wesson Oil is not only because Wesson Oil is wholesome itself, but also because it can be heated hot enough to fry perfectly without burning.

At the right temperature for frying most fats burn and "break down". Poor fat or this burned fat is not easily digested and is responsible for the idea that fried food is not wholesome. But Wesson Oil can be heated hot enough to fry perfectly long before it burns—and with reasonable care the food you fry in Wesson Oil is just as wholesome and as digestible as any other way you could cook it.

News of Society and Woman's Work

Captain J. W. English Honored At 86th Birthday Party

Captain James Warren English, beloved and prominent pioneer citizen of Atlanta, celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday Friday evening at a dinner given at the Piedmont Driving Club. This distinguished Georgian has been identified with the upbuilding of Atlanta, and is at the head of a family prominent in social and financial circles throughout the south. He is held in high esteem and regard by hundreds of friends, and is one of the most honored and respected citizens in Atlanta. His birthday is always the occasion for his family and friends to surround him with love and flowers, and to make him the central figure in a group who have been inspired and influenced by his splendid traits of character.

Exquisite Decorations. The elegantly-appointed table had as the central decoration a beautiful basket holding eighty-six American Beauty roses, the gift of the Fourth National Bank, of which Captain English was the former president. A birthday cake, exquisitely embossed and adorned with 86 lighted candles, was placed in front of the honor guest, and the other attractive table appointments included small baskets of roses and bouquets of hollyhocks and mums, and silver candlesticks holding lighted pink tapers. Covers were placed for forty-three guests.

Individual tables were placed around the outer edge of the room and each had as the central decoration a low basket of pastel shaded garden flowers.

The occasion assembled 200 guests, including relatives, close friends and business associates of the honor guest.

Miss Hays and Mr. Alexander Guests at Supper

Miss Ruby Hays and Eugene Edward Alexander, whose marriage will be a social event of this evening, were guests of honor at the buffet supper given by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Schwalm at their home in Decatur Friday evening following the wedding rehearsal.

The house was decorated with garden flowers, artistically arranged in vases and baskets. The table in the dining room was overlaid with a cover of lace and embroidery. The central decoration of pink dahlias artistically arranged in a large silver basket was encircled by candlesticks holding unshaded pink tapers.

Mrs. Schwalm received her guests wearing a handsome gown of black blue draped over satin.

The lovely bride-elect wore a costume of blue satin crepe.

Mrs. C. B. Read and Mrs. Delma Stanley, sisters of Mrs. Schwalm and her mother, Mrs. V. W. Hays, assisted her in entertaining.

The guest list included the members of the bridal party, out-of-town guests and members of the families.

Many Assemble For Club Tea.

Many club members and friends enjoyed tea and bridge at the Atlanta Woman's club Friday afternoon.

Autumn foliage and baskets of large chrysanthemums formed the decoration in the club rooms.

Miss Margaret Read and Mrs. George Kirkman, of Little Rock, Ark., were the honor guests at a party entertained by Mrs. Charles E. Cotterill.

Mrs. J. B. Kincaid was hostess to the members of the Beta Tau Alpha sorority. Covers were placed for nineteen guests.

Mrs. J. M. Glenn, of Savannah, was an interesting visitor entertained by Mrs. B. F. Holtzendorf.

Other small parties were entertained by Mrs. Arthur Hazzard, Mrs. C. R. Tyburn, Mrs. O. D. Dickerson, Mrs. John M. Cooper and Miss Dorothy Orr.

Mrs. Drake Is Hostess.

A pretty event of Friday was the bridge-luncheon at which Mrs. James Stoney Drake entertained Friday at her home in the Pershing Point apartments, complementing a group of her close friends.

The luncheon table was overlaid with a light cover and was centered with a large basket of white and yellow chrysanthemums. Bridge was played following the luncheon. Pink and white roses formed the decoration in the reception rooms.

Mrs. Drake received her guests wearing a gown of midday black satin and cream lace.

Yaarab Patrol Gives Large Dance At East Lake

The dance given by the Yaarab Patrol of the Shrine assembled 150 Shriner and their wives Friday evening at the East Lake country club.

The Yaarab temple colors of red, yellow and green were effectively used in the decoration of the long living room of the club house, where dancing was enjoyed.

Streams of red and green, combined with ropes of southern smilax, hung gracefully from the chandeliers. The walls were adorned with bright red and green flags and the orchestra loft was banked with green palms and smilax.

The guests enjoyed a buffet supper at 11 o'clock, which was served in the wide sun parlors of the club. A profusion of red dahlias, yellow zinnias and feathery green ferns were artistically used in the decoration of the sun porches.

The committee of arrangements for the dance included, Al Matthews, chairman; W. L. Brady, R. O. Estes, W. C. Owens, Glover Thrash, J. A. Hollis and Dr. Joseph Heard.

Miss Shinholser Will Be Honored.

Mrs. Jack Short will entertain at a bridge-tee Tuesday afternoon at her home on Euclid avenue in compliment to Miss Mary Shinholser, a bride-elect of November.

Benefit Bridge Featured At Georgian Terrace on Friday

An occasion of much interest on Friday was the second large bridge party sponsored by the members of the Sheltering Arms resident at the Georgian Terrace for the benefit of the Osgood Sanders Nursery fund, which has been before the public since last July. The building is nearing completion, and every effort is being made toward raising the total sum necessary to complete the undertaking, as under the deed to the old property no indebtedness may be placed upon this home.

One hundred tables were arranged for the party throughout the parlors and mezzanine of the Terrace hotel, which appeared at their best with quantities of palms and winter shrubs already in place for the winter season. Tall jars of autumn leaves and goldenrod interspersed throughout the rooms added a brilliant note of color to the scene.

Nothing was raffled or sold, but a number of exquisite prizes had been donated to the cause, consisting of a French pin cushion of patchwork lace, a dainty boudoir jacket, two large cakes, a box of Hayley's choicest candy, a basket of prize dahlias from the gardens of Mrs. W. H. Kiser, a basket of choice fruits and a lovely silk rug.

These prizes were displayed on a long table at the entrance to the lounge, each guest drawing a number for the game as she entered. Little Miss Lucia Bellinger, a charming and popular visitor at the Terrace, drew the winning numbers from a tiny basket which held all corresponding numbers. More than three hundred guests were present, the tables arranged for both Mah Jongg and bridge. The hostesses were as follows: Mesdames Marion Harper, W. S. Elkin, W. W. Banks, Frederick Harfield, Dunbar Roy, Samuel Slices, James L. Dickey, W. J. Blalock, Forrest Adair, Jesse Couch, Henry Collier, Wilkins Cagle, J. W. Conway, George Damour, T. W. Hardwick, Don Pardee, J. C. Hunter, R. A. Johnson, J. A. Hirschberg, Howard McCall, S. C. Linnquist, J. R. Roberts, St. Elmo Massengale, M. Rich, M. H. Stewart, Hugh Adams, A. S. Weil, Albert Dunson, S. Wiseberg, W. L. Williams, Louise Wellhouse, Alvin Wellhouse, W. S. Byck, E. S. Street and Miss E. E. Chapin.

Mrs. Ashby Will Lecture.

Mrs. Rose Mae Ashby, psychologist, will lecture Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the assembly room of the Carnegie library. The subject will be "The Faculties of Power and Strength, How to Gain Strength of Mind and Body." An interesting feature will be the process of mastering self and environment.

This will be a practical and helpful meeting. Both men and women are invited.

Today A Coat Occasion Of Great Economy Importance

NOT in the history of coat selling have we seen such coat exhibits as we're making this season. Finish, richest fabrics in the favored soft pile weaves, they're lavishly embroidered, artfully braided and sumptuously enriched with furs of luxurious richness — and the prices are quite modest for such high-grade coats.

Consider These Allen Models at These Prices

Three models are pictured. The handsome fabrics are well known—gleaming Gerona, Lustrosa and Cordova—all richly befurred at collar and wrists—deep, wide enveloping fox, wolf and viatka squirrel furs.

SUCH coats as these do not need to be renewed season after season—they remain—a splendid investment . . . and such coats as these are a far better investment than you perhaps realize, unless, indeed, you have a long-time shopping experience which tells you that these are unusual values.

We are privileged to offer such values because of our specialized purchasing of coats—buying them by the $100,000 contract through our established New York buying office.

Mrs. McWhorter Entertains At Lovely Bridge-Tea

Mrs. W. J. McWhorter was hostess at a beautiful bridge-tea Friday afternoon at her home on Sycamore street, in Decatur, this being the first of a series to be given by Mrs. McWhorter. Throughout the spacious reception rooms a graceful arrangement of cosmos and bright autumn leaves were used. Halloween score cards and other details of the lovely party carried out the Halloween idea.

The guests included Mrs. W. M. Brownlee, Mrs. B. B. Lewis, Mrs. F. P. Cook, Mrs. J. C. Glenson, Mrs. Jesse Sutton, Mrs. Herbert Coons, Mrs. Cecile Waller, Mrs. Charles Weekes, Mrs. Myrick Clements, Mrs. Dan White, Mrs. William Woodberry, Mrs. Arthur Gresham, Mrs. Clarence Crocker, Mrs. John Goss, Mrs. C. A. Matthews, Mrs. P. S. Weekes, Mrs. Howell Green, Mrs. George Napier, Mrs. B. B. Smith, Mrs. H. W. Cline, Mrs. L. E. Roberts, Miss Blanche Roberts and Mrs. T. J. Johnson.

"Rainbow Dance." Miss Youmans is a pupil of the Bass Junior High school. Miss Regina Barfield, a talented pupil of the Inman Park school, will appear in a very beautiful solo dance. Both of these very young ladies are talented, and the dances they will present will add greatly to the interesting program. Miss Ware will play the accompaniment.

Mrs. G. H. Guys, Mrs. Porter Langston, Mrs. T. G. McCarley, and Mrs. C. N. Weems will be present to act as chaperones.

The Alpha theater will present a very interesting program for the boys and girls' matinee, Saturday, October 27, at 9:30 o'clock. "The Desert Wolf," a two reel Pathe, Western drama, is the feature picture chosen. "Tom Sauschi," the thirteenth episode of "In the Days of Daniel Boone," featuring Eileen Sedgwick, is the instructional picture selected for the Alpha this week.

"No Wedding Bells for Me," a very amusing comedy, starring Larry Semon, will also be shown—this is a two reel Vitaphone production. Larry Semon is very popular with Alpha audiences, and announcement of his pictures affords much pleasure to youthful patrons of the Alpha.

Mrs. Ellis Barrett and Mrs. L. C. Holmsback will act as official chaperones.

Miss Helen Youmans will present the feature picture to be shown at the boys' and girls' matinee at the Howard theater Saturday, October 27, at 10 o'clock. Enid Bennett stars in this mystery picture. "The Cobbler," and "Our Gang," Pathe production, is the comedy chosen for this week's entertainment. "Our Gang" pictures continue to grow in popularity with young people. "Urban Classics" No. 16, a one reel Vitaphone production, is the instructional selection for Saturday. "Urban Classics" is of a highly informative character, and is just as entertaining and amusing as it is informative. A very beautiful prologue has also been arranged for Saturday, consisting of two dancing numbers.

Seats on Sale For Rosa Raisa Concert Tuesday

The glorious voice of Rosa Raisa will be revealed to music lovers of Atlanta Tuesday evening for the first time in a program of varied interest and much charm. She appears with Giacomo Rimini, the baritone, in the opening concert of the Atlanta Music Club's Civic Concert series at the auditorium-armory.

Being the acknowledged living prima donna among dramatic sopranos, her program will of course contain a number of operatic airs, two of which she sings with Mr. Rimini. In addition, her concert ability will be tested by a group of songs by Russian composers, and another group of recent American songs. The program will include: "Vespre Siciliani" (Bolero), Verdi; "Mme. Raisa; Cavatina from 'Bartieri di Civiglia,' Rossini; Mr. Rimini; 'Autumn,' Arensky; (b) 'Cease thy Singing,' Maiden Fair; Rachmaninoff; (c) 'Be it Bright Day,' Tchaikovsky; Mme. Raisa; duet, 'Don Pasquale,' Pizzetti; Mme. Raisa and Mr. Rimini; (a) 'Non Voglie Amarti,' Tosatti; (b) Toreador song, from 'Carmen,' Bizet; Mr. Rimini; (a) 'Ashes of Roses,' Woodman; (b) 'Do Not Go, My Love,' Hageman; (c) 'Chanson Norvegienne,' Fourdrain; Mme. Raisa; aria from 'Pique Dame,' Tchaikovsky; Mr. Rimini; duet, 'Il Trovatore,' Verdi; Mme. Raisa and

Mr. Rimini; the accompanist will be Carol Perrenot.

The seat sale for this concert, which opened at the Cable Piano company Friday, will be continued there until the evening of the concert. Prices range from $3 to $12.50. At the same time tickets can also be secured to the Paderewski recital or to any of the others of the Civic Concert series.

Building of New Market Progressing.

Now that the cold weather has begun, the farmers are eagerly watching the progress on the municipal market building, which is rapidly going forward, and it is with much relief that they realize that the market will never be closed again.

Formerly, when the winter season came the farmers were forced to abandon their posts at the curb, and would lose many sales that might be made during the season, also the housewife was at a loss where to purchase fresh produce, directly from the farm, but since the building is so near completion, the home-keeper will no longer wonder what she will have for dinner tomorrow, but will visit the market and select a variety of edibles, which will be appetizing on account of the freshness and inexpensive because they are purchased direct from the farm.

Mrs. Norman Sharp, chairman of the market committee from the Atlanta Woman's club, has appointed the following women, as patronesses for the market today: Mrs. Clifford Dawson, Mrs. W. E. Beckham, Mrs. Laura Pitts, Mrs. Alice Taylor, Mrs. Capers Andrews, Mrs. T. G. Delph, Mrs. E. M. Horine, Mrs. Arthur Hazsard, Mrs. Victor Kreighshaber, Mrs. M. L. Throver, Mrs. Sam Osburn, Mrs. John Manget, Mrs. Norman Miller, Mrs. W. O. Foote, Mrs. James T. Williams, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. Irving Thomas.

College Park P-T. A. To Give Supper.

The College Park Parent-Teacher

association will give a hot tamale lunch and supper Saturday, October 27, in the G. P. Wright store building, College Park. Besides a Mexican plate there will be served barbecue and baked ham plates. Soft drinks of all kinds served with the meals.

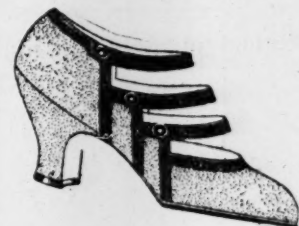

A cafe entertainment, including Spanish singing by several Cubans, music by a male chorus and recitations, will be an enjoyable feature.

The Constitution's Patterns

A NEW AND STYLISH COAT

4514. Camels hair, velours and all pile fabrics may be used for this style. It is also good for satin, taffeta and crepe weaves. The flounce is the new feature in fashions of this season. The pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size requires 3-7-8 yards of 64-inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A Dainty Frock for the Little Miss

4539. White wool challie with figured challie is here portrayed. Figured and plain voile would also be attractive as well as plaid suiting and plain woolen. The sleeve may be finished without the peasant portion.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6-year size requires 2-3-4 yards of 32-inch material. To make sleeves and front of contrasting material requires 7-8-yard 40 inches wide.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A SMART COAT DRESS FOR MISSES AND SMALL WOMEN

4359. Silk gingham with facings of satin in a contrasting shade would be very attractive for this model. It is

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

They Look Better, Too.

Shelace the inside of bureau and cupboard drawers and see how much easier they are to keep clean.

Cold, But Not Freezing.

Never keep olive oil directly on the ice. It freezes rapidly and is then difficult to use in salad dressing, as it is apt to "separate."

A Little Vanity.

Encourage children to use the mirror when dressing. One will have a much neater, cleaner child if you do, for it seems one has to prove the fact that sonny's hands and face are dirty and daughter's hair needs attention.

Disinfect the Mouthpiece.

We are all so particular about using individual water glasses, yet the mouthpiece on the telephone is often forgotten. Wipe it once a week with a weak solution of carbolic acid, thereby preventing the spreading of grippe, colds and other diseases.

Tricks in All Trades.

When sewing snaps on a garment, sew the half with the projecting point on first. Then press down firmly on the material in the place at which the corresponding snap is to be sewn. This will leave a distinct impression in the goods to show you just where to place the snap.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. An 18-year size requires 4 yards of 44-inch material. The width at the foot is 21-2 yards. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE.

We Paint Our Frocks Instead of Our China Nowadays.

To some purists in the use of English the expression "hand-painted" is as offensive as "horseback riding."

Strictly speaking, of course, to ride is enough, since riding means being carried on a horse's back. Americans have in times past vastly shocked their English cousins by speaking of "horseback riding lessons" and "horseback riding habits."

So with hand-painted. If a thing is painted, presumably it is hand-painted. Even country houses, with vast brush. One woman used to paint velvet to make fire screens and table covers and "studies," to throw over the end of mantle shelf or the top of a piano. Now the trick of painting on velvet has been taken over by the milliners, who solve the problem of trimming by painting brilliant flowers or conventional designs on velvet hats. The sketch shows black velvet bag and hat painted in green and dull gold.

be not much admired today, painted—"hand-painted"—hats and frocks and accessories are in demand. There is no fabric that does not lend itself to the brush that carries paint. Knitted frocks and bodices even show splashy and effective motifs applied with a brush. One woman used to paint velvet to make fire screens and table covers and "studies," to throw over the end of mantle shelf or the top of a piano. Now the trick of painting on velvet has been taken over by the milliners, who solve the problem of trimming by painting brilliant flowers or conventional designs on velvet hats. The sketch shows black velvet bag and hat painted in green and dull gold.

To let well enough alone is usually a good motto in the art and practice of dressing. Well, if you have a little black velvet bag that seems to lack distinction, and you are skillful enough in the use of a brush to paint on velvet, then you might gain the note of distinction by painting it in some attractive design.

WOMANLY WEAKNESS

Birmingham Lady Took

Cardui for Relief of Change of Life Troubles and Says It Helped Her "So Much."

Birmingham, Ala.—"I first took Cardui for that tired, worn-out feeling that comes from being dreadfully run-down," says Mrs. Catherine E. Smith, of 2106 Stout Street. "Twenty-five years ago, I was suffering from womanly weakness. I read of Cardui in an almanac, and thought I would try it. I got a bottle and it helped me from the first. After that, during the whole of my married life, I took Cardui when I needed it."

"About four years ago, change of life came on me. I grew weaker and weaker, and was confined to my bed where I laid on my back for days. I was told that only a severe operation could do me any good, and this depressed me very much for I dreaded such an ordeal."

"I remembered how Cardui had helped me for female trouble in the past and I had read of how it had helped other women during change of life, so one night I told my husband to go to the drug store and get me a bottle. I began taking it at once. From the first dose I could feel myself getting stronger. I continued to take Cardui until I was entirely through this very trying period of a woman's life."

"Cardui is a wonderful medicine for women. It helped me so much that I gladly recommend it to other women suffering as I did." At druggists.

Beauty Chats

BY EDNA KENT FORBES

LITTLE ILLNESSES.
This is not really a beauty chat, but it is an answer to any number of questions that come to me every day from beauty seekers. There are many little illnesses and ailments that affect the looks, that must be cured by a physician, or overcome by diet and exercise. Yet hundreds of young girls seem to think all these need is a cream or a bottle of lotion to stop the trouble.

Dark circles under the eyes, for instance. No cream or bleach can eradicate a thing that is caused by some definite physical complaint. Dark rings may be due to nervousness, sleeplessness, intense weariness, or some slight internal trouble. A general building-up tonic may be all that is necessary; in more serious cases, a doctor's advice must be had.

Blotches on the skin are another frequent complaint. The trouble is probably with the liver or kidneys, though it may only be a temporary digestive upset. But skin blotches are of no use, the internal cause must be cured. Excessive perspiration is a thing that troubles many women, sometimes it is due to skin trouble, but often to extreme nervousness. Hands that grow clammy and perspire freely are due to nerves, and generally show that the health and the nervous resistance are broken down. It is an odd thing that emotions affect the sweat glands. Some people are so emotionally affected by music that they can't keep on gloves during an opera without having them ruined by perspiration.

Large ankles and ugly feet are often due to badly fitting shoes. Massage can help here, but nothing will cure such troubles but proper shoes and exercise.

Half the complaints about gray hair show that the cause is illness or nervousness, and hair tonics are not much use then.

Bobbed Locks.—The menu you have decided upon should cause you to lose the five pounds in a few weeks. For while many of the articles of food are fattening the amount taken is so small that you will not be gaining enough fattening calories to actually fatten you.

A menu which would not be so exacting would be one in which starches and rich foods, such as pies and starchy sweet puddings, were eliminated.

A change from white bread to that made from bran or whole wheat, will do much to lessen the amount of starch many people eat without realizing it. The reason why many girls look well is due to the attention they give to perfecting their appearance in little things. Observe this attention to detail in the girls you admire.

F. M. K.—For a height of five feet three inches, weight 119 pounds (according to the standard set from averaging the proportions of college girls) there should be 36 inches for hip measurement to 31 1/2 inches chest when it is expanded, or 29 inches when chest is normal.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chat" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great many received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

The HOUSEHOLD

Edited by Anne Rittenhouse

GOOD ONE CRUST PIE.
One crust pie is doubtless more wholesome than two crust ones, simply because there is less pastry and more filling. Here are some good recipes:

Orange Pie.
Add one rounded tablespoon of cornstarch, mixed with one cup of cold water to three-quarters cup of boiling water and cook three minutes. Add a pinch of salt, the grated rind of one and one-half oranges, the juice of three oranges, one cup of sugar and cool. Beat in the yolks of two eggs and the white of one, both well beaten, and pour into a paste-lined plate. Bake and cool slightly. Cover with a meringue made from the white of one egg beaten stiff with a level tablespoon of powdered sugar and set in a cool oven for ten minutes.

Cocanut Pie.
Put two even tablespoons of grated cocanut in a pint of milk. Add three even tablespoons of sugar, the yolks of two well beaten eggs and two even tablespoons of cornstarch stirred to a paste with a little cold milk. Add butter the size of a walnut and cook until thickened and smooth. Line a pie plate with crust, prick in several places and bake in a hot oven. Then fill with the cocanut mixture and spread with a meringue made from the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth with two tablespoons of sugar. Sprinkle with cocanut, set in a coolish oven and brown slightly.

Cream Pie.
Dissolve one and one-half cups of sugar in two cups of cream. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and add flavoring to taste. Bake with one crust. A tablespoon of sifted flour may be mixed with the sugar to good advantage.

Pumpkin Pie.
Mix four cups of stewed and strained pumpkin with nine eggs beaten separately, two quarts of milk, a teaspoon each of cinnamon, mace and nutmeg, one and one-half cups of sugar and a tablespoon of wine. Bake with one crust.

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS

A Letter from Mrs. Ward Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Springfield, Ohio.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved a for me before my fourth child was born. With the first three I had been sick and weak, and had sick headaches twice a week. I couldn't keep enough food down to do me any good, and my work was left undone many a time. My sister-in-law told me to take the Vegetable Compound when I began to have the same old dreadful sickness and headaches and was so worn out. Since then I have only had two headaches, had a good appetite and scarcely lost a meal. I have a fine, healthy baby girl who has never had a sick day. The nicest part is that I am healthy, too. It did me a lot of good, and if I should ever have another baby I will take your medicine at once."—Mrs. BESSIE WARD, 1027 Park Avenue, Springfield, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system.

STARVED HEARTS

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

CHAPTER XXV.

Surrender.

Madelon's voice was so low that Chandler had to turn and bend toward her to distinguish her words.

"Last night," she was saying, her gaze on her own interlocked fingers, "you asked me to marry you, I refused. . . I've changed my mind."

The last words were scarcely more than a whisper. He bent closer.

"You mean—you will?"

She bowed her head in assent. He drew a deep breath.

"Madelon—"

She made a pathetic little gesture. "Don't misunderstand me. . ."

Nothing is changed since yesterday, I don't love you. I love someone else—the one I told you of last night. But you said it didn't matter. That companionship was the only thing worth counting. But I—like you, I like to be with you. And if you'll take me on those terms—"

"Will?" he echoed, and there was a note of exultation in his voice. Then—

"May I ask what made you change your mind?" he said quietly.

She raised her eyes to his briefly. "I'll be quite frank with you. It's only fair. . . When I got back to the hotel last night, I found a wire from my uncle. He is coming west to take Barbara and me home. I don't want to go back. I was too unhappy there. I would rather go—"

His hand closed over hers. "I will try to make you happy, little Madelon," he promised softly.

Swing tears flooded her eyes, but she blinked them back.

"Do you think it likely that your uncle will object to your marrying me?" he asked, after a moment.

"I don't know. He generally objects to everything one wants to do," she answered wearily.

"When will he arrive?"

"In a few days, I fancy. His wife said he was leaving at once."

"If we were already married, his objections would be futile, wouldn't they?"

She nodded.

"Have you the courage to marry me and trust to his forgiveness afterward?"

She smiled through her tears. "I've begun to think that is the only way I'll ever be able to get married. But perhaps he won't object to you at all. He can't want me to be an old maid."

He opposed my other chances because they were too young and he said they were fortune-hunters. He couldn't think that of you."

Chandler was looking straight before him and his eyes narrowed suddenly, but all he said was:

"You speak of 'they'? Was there more than one aspirant to your hand who was sent about his business?"

Madelon laughed a little, drowsily. "Did you think you were only the second man who had wanted to marry me?"

For answer he swept her into his arms, crushing her against him with the force that she remembered vividly from the night before.

"Judging from myself, I must be the second hundredth," he said, passionately. "No man could resist you, my beautiful."

Before he could kiss her, she had struggled from his clasp.

"I've tried to be fair," she said hurriedly. "I've tried to tell you everything. There was another man—one I met in Paris. I know now that I didn't love him at all, but I thought I did for a time. I was almost engaged to him—at least, I thought I was. Uncle Stephen sent him away."

"And where is he now?" there was something like jealousy in the question.

"Back east somewhere. I never see him any more. . . Now, you know all my past," she added shyly.

He flung back his head and laughed aloud.

"Dear, little, white, spotless page," he said tenderly. "I wish I had one as blameless to spread before you."

"Have you been very wicked?" she asked hesitantly.

"Not very," his whimsical smile belied the gravity of his eyes. "My sins have been mostly those of omission. And the ones I have committed spring from loneliness and lack of responsibilities, rather than from deliberate viciousness. It is not good for man to live alone," little Madelon, he quoted.

"Isn't that the beginning of the marriage service? . . . We shall be hearing that together in a day or so. Shall we not, my beautiful?"

Tenderly, he bent over her. Gently, he gathered her back into his arms. Very softly, his lips met hers, and after a first momentary shrinking, she relaxed against him in complete surrender.

Also her head, his eyes shone with a peculiar triumph.

THE FIFTH ACE

By Douglas Grant.

Next Week: "Tobias of the Light."
BY JAMES A. COOPER.

"Starr Wiley?" Willa smiled. "Did he ask you anything else, Mr. Ryder?"

"He was trying most particular to find out Gentleman Geoff's last name, but nobody ever heard it here. You'll find Klondike Kate living in the last shack on the west side of the street before you come to the coal yard. She ain't a pleasant sight to look at, poor old Kate! The fire caught her, too, when she rescued the baby, and though she was a fine appearing girl before then, her own losses wouldn't know her now, or want to I guess, for that matter. She's square, say that for me; whatever she tells you, you can bank on."

Willa took leave of Mr. Ryder and departed upon her quest for the lost ribbon. The shack next to the coal yard was more forlorn than the others, though the sagging porch was swept clean and the windows were being mended to mend the breaks in roof and walls with fresher slabs of unpainted wood, which stood out against the gray weathered boards like patches of an old coat.

There was no bell, but Willa knocked patiently on the panel until there came a slow tread within and the door opened. A thin, angular woman stood there, her dark hair streaked with gray. Willa glanced at her and swiftly averted her gaze in pity. The face before her was drawn and scarred as if the hot hand of wrath had clamped it, and the twisting of the hideous, grinning semblance of a mask.

"I beg your pardon," Willa's voice was very gentle, and she was looking at someone known as Klondike Kate. "If you are she, I have a great favor to ask of you."

She had sounded the right note; the woman who for so long has been the recipient of grudging, half contemptuous favor herself gasped and flung wide the door.

"Come in, miss. I'm Kate, right enough. Sit down close to the stove; I ain't got much of a fire. The voice was singularly clear and sweet.

Willa glanced about her and then back at the woman, who had dropped into a low rocker beside a table heaped with red flannel, which she had evidently been mending. The room was tiny and pitifully bare but scrubbed clean, and pathetic bows of faded ribbon arose to conceal the worn spots on the coarse snowy curtains. A small pot bubbled on the stove and two cold potatoes and half a stale loaf on the shelf betrayed the meagerness of the larder.

The woman had given an impression of age at first, but Willa saw now that she could be no more than forty, and her eyes were rather fine despite their hint of tragedy.

"I'm looking for someone who can tell me about Violet, the girl who used to dance at Jake's," Willa closed her eyes deliberately. "Mr. Ryder says you were a close friend of hers, years ago."

"Bill Ryder said that?" Klondike Kate drew a deep breath. "A friend? She was the best friend a body could ever have! But you got her wrong, miss. I have known her; she died fifteen years past."

"I know. I was wondering if you knew her story; if she left any papers with you?"

"Who are you?" the woman asked suddenly bending forward. "If I knew Willa's story, would I repay her for all her kindness by telling it to a stranger? Why should I show you her papers if she had leave any with me, when that lawyer could get nothing out of me two years ago for all his blustering?"

"Would you do it if you could help her baby to claim what is her own?" Willa asked earnestly. "I happen to know that the girl your friend left behind her is trying to prove her identity. I thought you would want to help her out of this difficulty."

"Oh, if I could!" Klondike Kate clasped her thin worn hands. "Violet was about the rich father-in-law who hadn't ever forgiven her. Where is Billie? Is she well and happy?"

"She is well," Willa responded slowly. "She never knew that it was you who saved her from the fire in which her mother lost her life."

The scarred face flushed.

"I forgot her first, that was the awful part. She'd been ailing and her mother couldn't leave her home, so while she did her term I sat in her dressing room, mending my skirt and talking to the kid. When I heard the shots and the lamp exploded and the house flared up, I just made a jump for the door. Then I remembered Billie and went back and the flames caught us both."

"But—but—she isn't scarred!" Willa cried.

"No, I—I tore off my skirt and wrapped her in it. Only her little bare feet stuck out and one of them got burned real bad."

"One of—her—feet?" repeated Willa breathlessly. "Did it leave a scar? Oh, think! think!"

"Why, I guess it must have, miss."

The woman stared at her. "The right foot it was, and there was a bad burn on the inside of the ankle right up from the heel, like a tongue of flame had licked it. It wasn't hardly well when Gentleman Geoff came and took her away with him."

For a moment Willa sat as if stunned, then she bent swiftly and, whispering off her shoe and stocking, thrust out a slender pink foot. The inner side was scarred with a tiny forked red line, slight but unmistakable.

"You!" Klondike Kate rose slowly. "You are Billie!"

With a little sob Willa went to meet her and in an instant the two were crying in each other's arms.

The older woman was the first to recover herself.

"Oh, my dear, to think that I didn't know you! I ought to have seen from the first—your mother's hair and eyes—"

"But you know me now!" Willa smiled through her tears. "You could swear to me by that scar, couldn't you? You see, there is someone trying to claim I'm not the girl you knew as Billie, and I have no other proof. I never fancied that little scar meant anything; I haven't thought of it in years. You saved my life once, at the risk of your own—will you help me now?"

"Will I?" Klondike Kate wiped her eyes. "I'll go to the last ditch for you! I've lived right for fifteen years and I guess my word is as good as the next one's. You just take me to whoever says you're not little Billie and I'll prove their lie before any court on earth."

"That reminds me; I have something for you. It won't help make good your claim, for they might say an impostor got it from me, but it's yours and you ought to have it and keep it with your valuable belongings."

She brought out a folded paper yellowed and worn, and a tarnished locket on a bit of faded, scorched blue ribbon.

"I was sick when Gentleman Geoff took you with you or I'd have tied the locket on your wrist," she said. "It's got both their pictures in, your mother and father. See!"

She opened the case and Willa gazed at the two young faces that smiled back at her.

"It was taken from her neck when she died," Kate said softly. "Jake gave it to me to keep for you. Here's what she prized most of anything she had; I put it in my hands herself to keep for her."

The yellowed paper, unfolded, proved to be the certificate of marriage of Violet Ashton and Ralph Murlough, dated January 2, 1896.

The two talked long within the little shack, and when Willa emerged at last the sun had disappeared behind a bank of clouds, and the still cold which precedes a snowfall had settled down upon the valley.

The tragedy of utter isolation from all human ties descended upon her, and in the depths of her desolation she was oblivious to the sound of footsteps approaching. It was only when they halted that she glanced up—and found herself looking into the eyes of Kearn Thode.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Those had been over the trail on which Willa had gathered the evidence that led Willa to leave the Halstead home. He had found the whole story was fabricated and had obtained a written confession that the adoption papers had been forged. His suspicion had been aroused by the name Abercrombie, ascribed to Gentleman Geoff, which was not the name the gambler had whispered to him on his deathbed.

"I cannot thank you for all that you have done, and I still cannot quite understand," she said. "It was Gentleman Geoff," he reminded her courteously.

"You will not let me offer you my thanks," she murmured. "But I am indeed grateful."

"I have something further to tell you which I think concerns you closely. Are you aware that Starr Wiley and his partner, Harrington Chase, have purchased from Tia Juana Reyes the property known as the Lost Souls' lease?"

"You cannot mean it!" she gasped. "It cannot be true; there is a mistake somewhere."

"They have both gone down to Elmasito to inspect developments. I read that two of the principal stockholders, Mason North and Ralph Chase, Ripley Halstead, together with their families, had gone also in a private car to Mexico."

Willa's eyes sparkled dangerously, and she clenched her little hands.

"I, too, am going to Mexico. I want to see the Lost Souls' Well and learn from Tia Juana's own lips the story of its transfer."

"I shall be down there myself," Thode announced, rising. "If you recall our conversation when we met again in New York, you will remember that I told you of my own ambition to find Tia Juana and try to obtain possession of the Lost Souls' lease."

"I even wrote to my employer after you had gone, and I discovered that Tia Juana was Juana Reyes, the owner of the pool, that I had only to find her to win her consent."

"You wrote—that?" Willa rose slowly, her rich color ebbing.

"I wrote that except for Trevino, the Mexican who sold her the lease, no one there knew her real name, and it wouldn't matter to them if they did—they wouldn't have connected old Tia Juana, of that tumble-down shack in the zapote grove, with the Juana Reyes who could afford to buy the Trevino hacienda, you see? I also said, if I remember, that she was the undoubted owner of almost boundless wealth, and when I had gone after her and won her consent to selling a half interest in the pool itself."

"Oh," Willa cried, wincing as if he had struck her a blow, "you wrote that about Tia Juana! And I—I oh, how blind I was! How wickedly, cruelly blind!"

CHAPTER XIX.

On a bright February morning Ben Hallock purged up the Calle Rivera and across the plaza of Linneto as fast as his battered jitney could carry him, and rushed into Benagott's hotel with an anticipatory gleam in his heavy eye.

"Hey, Jim, I got your message and I come a hummin'!" he announced.

"Now, it is I who do not understand," he shrugged. "What does it mean, anyway? Gentleman Geoff trusted me, however, and I have fulfilled that trust. Now I am free to take up my own fight again."

Willa held out her hand timidly.

"You will allow me to wish you luck, even if I may not thank you," she asked. "I—I have much to explain and you much to forgive, but we shall meet again in Mexico."

"Jumping Jehoshaphat, if it ain't the stranger's hand energetically. 'Misty' glad to see you, sir! Your engineer, Kearn Thode, called on me last fall; fine young feller he is, too! You heard about what he did when El Negro came?"

"Yes, Hallock, but I'm even more proud of him today!" The keen eyes sparkled. "I want you to meet a—er—a conferee of mine, Mr. Morrissey."

"What is it—vigilance committee?" "Sort of," Jim Baggett fairly pranced from behind the bar, his round face shining with excitement. "Here's a gentleman from New York, old friend of yours."

Ben Hallock turned to find himself facing an elderly personage with an impressively pointed gray beard and keen eyes behind gold-rimmed pince-nez.

"Perry Larkin!" Ben pumped the stranger's hand energetically. "Misty glad to see you, sir! Your engineer, Kearn Thode, called on me last fall; fine young feller he is, too! You heard about what he did when El Negro came?"

"You looked just like a picture of December and May—if you could only see how silly you looked devouring her with your eyes and drinking in every word she said—'You're just at the dangerous age when a woman's foolish flattery sounds sweeter than grand opera—' it's a man's privilege to act foolish but you're abusing that privilege—' YOU'RE OVERDOING IT—"

"OF COURSE YOU SAY YOU WENT INTO THAT DOORWAY TO GET OUT OF THE RAIN—BUT IT'S FUNNY THAT OUT OF ALL THE DOORWAYS IN THE CITY YOU HAD TO PICK OUT THE ONE WHERE YOUR LITTLE FRIEND WAS WAITING—THE ONLY TIME YOU HAPPEN TO MEET HER IS WHEN IT'S RAINING OR WHEN IT ISN'T RAINING—BUT DON'T FORGET ONE THING—THE DIVORCE COURTS ARE CROWDED WITH RAIN-DEARS LIKE YOU—"

Honest Dan, late taxi driver and amateur detective, purpled with embarrassment as he rose and shook hands, but his eyes, too, were dancing. Ben nodded to Henry Bailey, his ranch neighbor and the only occupant of the bar, and then turned again to Jim Baggett.

"Now perhaps you'll tell me what in thunder the racket is about! I'd have come to meet Mr. Larkin, with you hintin' at a lynchin' party!"

"Just say what you'll have and hold your horses!" Jim chuckled. "I'm acting under instructions, the same that brought Mr. Larkin and this here young man down from New York, and Ben Bailey in from his hacienda; the orders of Gentleman Geoff's Billie, by God!"

"Billie! She ain't—you don't mean she's comin' back?" Ben cried joyfully. "I told you she wasn't the kind to forget her old friends in spite of the grand life she's walked into; I knew she'd come back to see us—"

"It is business which brings her now, Hallock, and grim business," Mr. Larkin interposed.

The hum and whirr of two high-powered motors chugging in unison stole upon the air and rapidly increased in volume. Ben craned his neck from the window and then turned disappointedly.

"It's only the Lost Souls' crowd!" he granted.

"Shut up, quick!" Jim advanced from behind the bar with an almost comic air of ceremony as the motor party trooped in at the door and headed for the stairs.

Perry Larkin squared his pince-nez and recognized Mrs. Ripley Halstead and her daughter Angelica, while behind them appeared seven men; Halstead himself, his son Vernon, Starr Wiley, Harrington Chase, Mason North and his son Winthrop, and a stranger whom a second glance revealed as Cranmore, the Mexican representative of the Chase-Wiley interests.

"Excuse me, ladies and gentlemen, but we've been waiting for you!" Jim Baggett began in the voice of a showman. "I'll have to ask you gentlemen to step this way, all of you. It's a real pressing little matter of business you're all concerned in; and the ladies can come, too, if they feel like it. There'll be more ladies present shortly."

Wondering, the whole party crowded into the room, and, recognizing Perry Larkin, greeted him with varying degrees of cordiality.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS
WILL HOLD REVIVAL.

Elder W. A. Pinkstaff, of Fayetteville, Tenn., will preach a series of sermons at the Atlanta Primitive Baptist church, beginning Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and continuing through the following Sunday, with preaching during the week at nights only at 7:30 o'clock.

Elder Pinkstaff is considered one of the best preachers in the Baptist denomination, having spent a great deal of time in evangelistic work in several different states. He is well-known and well-liked by the most encouraging report of the presbyter in all of its history. Great progress has been made on all lines in the home mission work under the management of Dr. Goff, the evangelist. The people of Preston view with each other in entertaining the members of the presbytery, who were entertained in the homes of all denominations. By rising vote, the presbytery voted their appreciation of the way the people of Preston exerted themselves to the comfort and welfare of the delegates.

Universalist---Unitarian

301 West Peachtree Street.      Service at 11 o'clock.

Bishop Candler stated Sunday in the public press that religious liberals are pursuing a Gnostic and Christless aim.

The bishop is misinformed.      Come and hear the truth.
